

Increase temporary

Ma Bell gets rate hike

HARRISBURG (UPI) — The Public Utility Commission Tuesday gave Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania an $11.8 million temporary rate increase that officials said would have minimal effect on monthly bills.

The increase, which is part of a $116.4 million hike the utility is seeking, takes effect today. Bell said $7.2 million of the hike would occur on nonrecurring service charges.

For example, the charge for reconnecting service increases from $12 to $17 for residences and from $23.50 to $33 for business.

For moving or changing a telephone, the charge increases from $12 to $16 for both residences and businesses.

However, the hike will not affect unlisted numbers charges or the 10 cent fee for pay telephones. One part of Bell's proposed increase would raise that fee to 20 cents.

"We doubt that it will have anything more than a minimal effect on the monthly bill," said a Bell spokesman.

The utility has now received $59.3 million of the $116.4 million hike it requested.

Earlier this year, Bell received a $47.5 million increase from the federal government on rates for interstate long distance tolls.

The PUC has not yet acted on the remaining $57 million of the proposed rate increase.

The decision on the $11.8 million came after the PUC could not agree on proposals that would have held rates at current levels or increased them by about $28 million.

PUC Chairman Louis Carter, a Democrat, moved that the rates be frozen, but his motion died when the two Republican commissioners refused to second it.

Carter said there was insufficient data gathered by the PUC's own staff to support a substantial temporary rate hike.

Commissioner Robert K. Bloom proposed a $28 million temporary hike, which also failed because no one would second it.

The $11.8 million proposal came from Commissioner James M. Kelly.

Legislative panel agrees on flood plain proposal

HARRISBURG (UPI) — A legislative conference committee Tuesday approved a revised flood plain management bill, but critics said the compromises did not go far enough to guarantee final passage.

Sen. Franklin Kury, the bill's sponsor and chairman of the panel, offered a series of amendments he worked out with officials of the Department of Environmental Resources.

"We have made a good faith effort to solve some of the problems critics of the bill have raised," said Kury, D-Northumberland.

But Rep. Frank O'Connell, R-Luzerne, said the measure still gives DER too much power and it may have trouble in the House.

The bill is designed to reduce damages, loss of life from future floods by requiring municipalities to regulate development along streams and riverbanks.

In some areas, development would be prohibited. In other places, buildings that are constructed on the flood plain would have to be flood-proofed.

DER would have the power to draw up minimum zoning standards which municipalities would have to meet.

The conference committee — made up of three representatives and three senators — was created after the House and Senate passed different versions of the flood plain management bill.

So many lobbyists for builders, developers, industries, local governments and environmental groups showed up that the meeting had to be moved from Kury's office to the Senate Majority Caucus room.

The hour-long session was enlivened by loud and heated debates between Kury and O'Connell, who was aided by Reps. Richard McClatchy and Vern Pyles, both R-Montgomery.

Two key changes the committee approved were designed to make sure that the bill will have little effect on houses and other buildings that already exist on the flood plains.

One said that persons do not have to get a permit to perform routine repairs and maintenance to their houses.

The other said that the state's regulations with respect to rebuilding flood damaged houses can be no more stringent than the regulations in the federal flood insurance program.

Casey finds $94 million left over in state's till

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Auditor General Robert P. Casey said Tuesday the state has $94 million left over from the last fiscal year that it can use during the current budget crunch.

In a letter to the governor, Casey said his auditors discovered the money during a check of all funds encumbered by the Commonwealth.

"We can find no reason whatsoever for any request at this time to impose new or increased general fund taxes when ... adequate funds are available," Casey said.

"We cannot refrain from adding these deceptive fiscal practices in connection with encumbrances can only lead to the same kind of fiscal thicket that now endangers the credit of New York City...."

The Constitution requires departments to lapse unspent money, but lets them hold onto — the auditing word is encumber — funds needed to pay their outstanding bills.

Shapp administration officials were surprised by the Casey audit. However, they declined to comment until they had a chance to review the report.

"As of now, I'd have to say Casey is wrong," said Budget Secretary Charles McIntosh. "His people disagree with us a lot of times about what is encumbered. However, we'll have to check into it."

While Casey implied that the money was available to be spent, the dispute apparently centers on the bookkeeping practices used by the departments.

The Office of Administration last March told departments to lapse all unspent money by July 31, even if it was needed to pay bills from fiscal 1975. OA told the departments use current year funds to pay the bills when they came due.

However, the Casey audit shows that the departments, apparently fearing a tight budget this year, held onto the money.

A Casey spokesman said he had no idea how much of the money was actually "available" for general spending. It also was not known why departments apparently ignored the OA order.

President not hurt in crash

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — President Ford's limousine was struck by another car at an intersection in downtown Hartford Tuesday night in what the Secret Service said appeared to be "a simple accident." Ford was not hurt.

Secret Service agents with drawn guns surrounded the other vehicle, which was badly damaged, and its occupants — a group of about five young people — were taken away by police for questioning. None was reported injured.

A witness who observed the collision from a distance said it appeared Ford was quickly pushed to the floor by security aides until it could be determined whether the collision was an accident or an attempt to harm him.

The limousine proceeded to the airport after only momentary delay, and Ford did not step out of it at the scene of the crash.

After a preliminary investigation, a Secret Service spokesman said, "It appears now it was a simple accident."

Hartford police detained a young man for questioning and a spokesman said the man told officers he had not struck the President's car intentionally.

Hartford Police Chief Hugo Masini said "apparently the driver had a green light and apparently nobody was blocking the intersection," but state police said the car had driven around a state police cruiser stationed as a roadblock. Masini ordered an investigation of the circumstances.

Ford, who was enroute to the airport to return to Washington after a GOP fund-raising appearance, was asked as he left the limousine how he felt.

"I feel fine, I feel good," he said. He said he was "not a bit" shaken up by the collision.

Ford was riding on the right rear seat next to Connecticut GOP chairman Frederick Biedel. Biedel injured his left hand.

Makes pledge at fund raiser

Ford vows fiscal fight

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — President Ford pledged to party faithful Tuesday night to set the government's "fiscal house in order" — even if it means vetoing a hundred times over any tax cut the Democratic Congress fashions that is not tied to a federal spending ceiling.

Emphatically reiterating his recurrent vow to bring "a halt to the suffocating growth of government," Ford flew to this capital with the message that his goal was a balanced federal budget in three years. He called on the lawmakers — he labeled them a "can't do" Congress — to help him reach that goal.

Congressional Democrats have said Ford's $28 billion tax cut cannot be tied to an advance limit of the same amount on federal spending.

Ford strongly castigated their view, declaring, "Tonight I say to the 'can't do' Congress: It can be done. Why not do it?"

Ford said he has used the veto 39 times since becoming President 14 months ago and claimed he saved American taxpayers $6 billion.

"I will use it 100 times if necessary, to prevent excessive and inflationary spending increases," the President said. "And that's about as positive as you can get."

Ford spent half an hour before his speech at a cocktail party at which about 350 Connecticut Republicans paid $125 each. Ford weaved his way through a crowded cocktail lounge shaking hands and exchanging small talk with fellow party members.

About 1,000 persons paid another $125 each for the fundraising dinner at Hartford's brand new civic center, and White House spokesmen said up to 1,000 more would dine on $15 box suppers in an adjoining room where the President's speech was piped in. Ford arranged to be back at the White House by midnight.

Russian co-winner in economics field

American shares Nobel award

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — American professor Tjalling Koopmans and Russian Leonid Kantorovich, long-time researchers in transportation efficiency and the problems of supply and demand, won the 1975 Nobel Prize in Economics Tuesday.

Koopmans, a 65-year-old Yale professor and native of the Netherlands, is widely known for his studies in industrial production, while the 63-year-old Kantorovich is sometimes considered controversial in the Soviet Union for his unorthodox economic ideas.

Kantorovich is the first Russian to be awarded the prize in economics, and the second to win a Nobel Prize so far this year. Last Thursday, Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov became the first Russian to win the Nobel Peace prize.

The prize-giving Royal Academy of Sciences said Koopmans and Kantorovich won the economics award for their independent studies on how "to find out the best ways of using existing resources to produce different commodities and services."

The Royal Academy said the $143,000 award also was for their research into the "problem of what goods should be produced and how much of the production should be used for consumption and how much should be used to create new resources."

Reached at his home in Hamden, Conn., Koopmans, a naturalized U.S. citizen, said, "I'm delighted to be combined with professor Kantorovich, whom I've met on several occasions."

He also said he felt that American and Russian scientists could work together in the field of economics despite "great differences in which the systems go about."

Kantorovich said in Moscow that he was "very moved, very glad at this recognition of my work."

He said it was too early for him to tell whether he would travel to Stockholm to pick up his share of the prize on Dec. 10. Kantorovich, a professor at the Siberian department of the Soviet Academy of Sciences and the holder of three orders of Lenin, is a pioneer in the application of computerized mathematics to the economy and has occasionally found himself under attack from Marxist purists who saw his work leading away from accepted economic theory.

A Swedish member of the Royal Academy of Sciences said many of Kantorovich's ideas went "against Soviet principles." Another western economic expert called him "a bit of a maverick."

But Western experts in Moscow said that Kantorovich has studiously avoided open confrontation with Soviet officialdom.

Cop killer suspect surrenders to police

KINGS BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — An ex-Marine suspected of robbing a bank and killing a Nevada policeman took three hostages at a Lake Tahoe resort beach club Tuesday but released them unharmed nine hours later and quietly surrendered.

Officials said Ken Meller, 34, agreed to give up after talking to a federal firearms agent flown in from San Diego at his request.

Meller, reportedly armed with a pistol and a .30-30 caliber rifle, had held the hostages for more than nine hours. He released beach club manager Dennis Wahn and Pat Malley, a plumber, earlier in the afternoon.

Meller later released Bob Berry, another club manager, after a conversation with federal agent Larry McLennan and was escorted from the building to a waiting car.

He was taken to the Tahoe City Jail.

Following a car and foot chase, about 50 police officers and FBI agents surrounded the octagonal lake-front building at the Innisfree Beach and Cabana club, a recreation complex for condominium owners at the High Sierra lake.

Officers took three shots at Meller as he alighted from an abducted van and missed. Later, Sheriff's Inspector Mel McDougal began negotiating with the suspect face-to-face in the club house.

McDougal said Meller asked that a friend, who is a federal Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agent in San Diego, be brought to Lake Tahoe.

"We're trying to negotiate with him and meet his demands, if necessary, and keep everybody from being hurt, including the suspect," McDougal said.

As McDougal negotiated, officers said Meller nervously shifted the rifle muzzle toward the hostages.

Kantorovich said in Moscow that he was "very moved, very

Prison escape ringleader captured by deputies

SALEM, Ill. (UPI) — Henry M. Gargano, reputed ringleader of a sophisticated breakout from the Marion, Ill., federal penitentiary, was captured Tuesday as he trudged, sick and footsore, along railroad tracks in southwest Indiana.

The convicted killer of two Chicago policemen was picked up by two sheriff's deputies near Bloomfield, Ind., about 100 miles east of the wooded area near Salem where three other members of the "extremely dangerous" fugitive band were cornered and seized earlier this week.

"I'm the guy you are looking for," Gargano told the deputies after they disputed his story that he was just "a fella kind of down on his luck from Elnora, Ind."

He said he had just jumped off a freight train near Linton, Ind., a short distance from Bloomfield. He also was quoted as saying he split up with another man near Linton, immediately touching off another search in that area.

Birth control rules hurt church

BOSTON — The Roman Catholic Church's ban on artificial means of birth control caused almost half the recent 33 per cent decline in attendance at Mass, according to a National Catholic Opinion Research Center study. "Almost half of the decline in Mass attendance can be accounted for by the changing attitude toward birth control," according to the study, released at the opening of the national meeting of the Diocesan Liturgical Commissions. The Chicago-based center said Mass attendance dropped almost a third between 1963 and 1974. "About a quarter of the decrease in churchgoing is accounted for by attitudes toward divorce and another quarter toward the Pope as head of the church," according to the study.

Shapp has his enemies

HARRISBURG — Harrisburg police say a weekend break-in cost the Shapp for President headquarters at 227 Pine Street $300 in coin and currency. A campaign worker reported the cash box missing.

Demos to cut chatter

WASHINGTON — After being told there was "a tragic pattern" of loss to Republicans in 1968 and 1972, the Democratic National Committee voted Tuesday to dampen the kind of wide-open debate that has tied up and split its national conventions. The 361-member committee, in its last scheduled meeting before the 1976 Democratic National Convention next summer in New York City, approved a recommendation requiring 25 per cent backing to bring minority committee reports to the floor. Previous conventions had permitted 10 per cent of the Credentials, Rules or Platform committees to force floor debate on an issue. National Committee Chairman Robert S. Strauss said that was a major cause of the long-winded bickering that put the 1972 convention through all-night sessions and brought its nominee, Sen. George McGovern, to the rostrum for his acceptance speech at 4 a.m.

Kidnap victim pleads for life

DUBLIN, Ireland — Kidnaped Dutch businessman Tiede Herrema pleaded with the Irish government Tuesday to save his life by giving in to his captors' demands. The government refused. The dramatic appeal was made in a smuggled tape recording handed to labor union official Philip Flynn, selected by the unknown kidnap gang as a new mediator. Flynn told reporters that Herrema had asked the government to comply with the abductors' demands for the release of three Irish Republican Army prisoners.

Forest fire contained

EAGLE, Colo. — Firefighters formed a perimeter around a huge fire in the White River National Forest Tuesday, successfully containing the blaze which had burned out of control for three days and threatened one of the nation's largest stands of Ponderosa pines. Forest Service spokesman Gary Severson said, however, the danger was not over. "It is contained, not controlled. The weather in the area has turned in favor of the firefighters and we hope to have the fire controlled before dark."

Ah, winter

MOHALL, N.D. — Heavy snows ranging from five to eight inches gave the Northern Plains an early blast of winter Tuesday. Near blizzard conditions lashed the northern edge of North Dakota, stranding some families. Snowfalls of six to eight inches were recorded in Mohall, N.D., and on the Turtle Mountain Indian Reservation. Winds caused drifting and blowing snow in some areas. Record heat lingered in parts of the Midwest. In Chicago, the temperature soared for the second straight day, tying a 78-year-old record high when it hit 86 degrees. It was 83 in Indianapolis and 85 in St. Louis.

Landers files for divorce

CHICAGO — Ann Landers, a syndicated columnist who gives advice to the lovelorn, filed for divorce Tuesday from Jules W. Lederer, her husband for 36 years. Miss Landers cited "extreme and repeated acts of mental cruelty" as reason for the divorce and said she separated from her husband last May 10. Lederer's conduct caused Miss Landers "embarrassment, humiliation and anguish" and affected her "physical and mental well being," according to the suit.

Danny Kaye honored

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Entertainer Danny Kaye received a United Nations' peace medal Tuesday and announced plans for a five-day, 65-city "flyathon" to support children collecting money for UNICEF on Halloween. "There is no way in the world we can get to the cities," the red-haired Kaye said, so he will fly his jet to airports and meet children there. The custom of having children collect donations for the U.N. Children's Fund instead of hunting for candy on Halloween started 25 years ago in Philadelphia and produced $14 that night, Kaye said.

Four automakers report '76 sales up

DETROIT (UPI) — The four U.S. automakers reported Tuesday that sales in the first period of the 1976-model year jumped nearly 13 per cent over year-ago levels when new model introductions produced a big thud in Detroit. The sales were the best for any month-opening period since November of 1973 and the best year-to-year gain since early September of last year. General Motors, Ford and American Motors reported substantial gains over last Oct. 1-10-17 per cent at GM, 16 per cent for Ford and 25 per cent at AMC—but Chrysler said its sales were down 14 per cent. Chrysler won't formally introduce its '76 models until later this week but said the new models accounted for 28 per cent of its sales. GM sales were aided by the new small Chevette which turned in the fastest sales start of any new car ever introduced by Chevrolet, accounting for 6,100 sales with 14,300 unfilled orders at the end of the period. The four companies sold 243,642 cars in early October, up 12.7 per cent from 216,110 a year ago and almost equal to

Lawyer for girl in coma argues for life

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (UPI) — An attorney appointed by the court to represent a 21-year-old woman who has been in a coma since April urged the court Tuesday not to grant her parents' request to turn off the respirator that keeps her alive. The young woman, Karen Quinlan, has been in a coma since she apparently took a combination of tranquilizers and alcohol. Joseph and Julia Quinlan, who adopted Karen as a child, have asked the court to appoint them as guardians so they can order the hospital to disconnect the respirator that keeps her heart beating and lungs breathing despite no apparent brain activity. The Quinlans, Roman Catholics, base their plea on their desire that Karen's death should be with dignity and advice from church officials that their church believes life need not be prolonged by "extraordinary" life-sustaining mechanisms. But attorney Daniel Coburn, appointed by the court to represent Karen, said the law does not permit parents to exercise their religious beliefs over a child if it endangers her life, health or safety. Coburn, in a brief filed with the Superior Court, asked that a third party without emotional ties to the case be appointed Karen's guardian. He suggested himself. Coburn said that Karen's medical condition is that of a "severely retarded person — one with a consciousness level less than that of an infant." Coburn said Karen is therefore unable to state her own beliefs and should not be bound by her parents' beliefs. He rejected statements by the Quinlans that Karen intimated to them on three previous occasions that under certain circumstances she would not want her life prolonged. "Unfortunately for the Quinlans, there is little reason to believe that their testimony as to what desire Karen may have expressed to them at a prior time will be deemed admissible in court," Coburn said. The attorney also claimed the Church's position that "extraordinary" life-sustaining mechanism need not be used does not constitute a mandate against their use.

Coburn said it must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt there would be no error in denying Karen life. "The simple and indisputable fact remains that by either action or inaction the (family) wishes to see the tragic existence of Karen cease," Coburn said.

Mutiny probe continues

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Indonesia and West Germany made formal application for custody of five survivors of an apparent mutiny and mass murder at sea, but immigration officials said Tuesday they still had made no decision on jurisdiction in the case. The four Indonesian seamen and a Filipino cook from the sunken Panamanian freighter Mimi remained at the West Palm Beach city jail, held under an Immigration Service charge of remaining illegally in the United States.

"Indonesia wants jurisdiction right away and has offered to fly the four Indonesians back there at its expense," said Louis T. Gidel, deputy district director of the Immigration Service. "West Germany has made no request to me but I understand it has made a formal request in Washington for the men."

Four West German officers from the Mimi remain missing. One of the four Indonesian seamen, Gun Supardi, 23, reportedly told rescuers and guards that he stabbed the officers to death and then scuttled the ship. Gidel has declined to confirm or deny that Supardi confessed to the killings. "I am not going to lend credence to what has been said verbally. It would be improper. You can draw your own conclusions," he said. Gidel said Supardi, Malik Abdul, Paulus Heydenmans and Mohammed Syiddik, all of Indonesia, and Ponciano Masong of the Philippines all talked freely to Immigration agents, although they refused to talk to Federal Bureau of Investigation agents.

Claim Bailey took $200,000 in jai alai aid

Ex-Demo boss named in payoff

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Even as a portrait of the late Democratic national chairman John M. Bailey was being unveiled for Democratic party chiefs in Washington, it was disclosed Tuesday that a jai alai promoter said he gave Bailey $200,000 for helping obtain a Connecticut gambling license. Organized crime investigators said Bailey, who died April 10 of cancer at the age of 70, was named by David Friend of Hollywood, Fla., president of Connecticut Sports Enterprises Inc.

Typhoon slams into Hong Kong

HONG KONG (UPI) — Typhoon Elsie pounded Hong Kong with 100 mile-per-hour winds Tuesday, wrenching ships from their moorings, paralyzing transport, leaving hundreds of residents homeless and sending others scurrying for cover from flying debris. Weathermen said Elsie was the strongest storm to hit the British crown colony since 1971 when typhoon Rose left eight dead and caused considerable damage. For eight hours, Elsie buffeted the colony with gale force winds accompanied by squally rain before crossing the China coast about 60 miles west of Hong Kong. At least 46 persons suffered minor injuries from flying glass, collapsing scaffolding and slippery pavements. Another 650 persons were made homeless by flooding in low-lying areas. They evacuated their poorly constructed homes and streamed into temporary shelters for hot meals. The government halted public transport and canceled all international flights in and out of the colony. Schools and other public buildings were closed. Bailey was Democratic national chairman for eight years during the administrations of John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson and was Connecticut chairman from the end of World War II until his death. Bailey's reputation was immediately and vigorously defended by Democratic officials in both Washington and Connecticut.

At a meeting of the Democratic National Committee in Washington, a portrait of Bailey that will hang in the party's national headquarters was unveiled, and party Treasurer Edward Bennett Williams, who said he had known Bailey since his (Williams') boyhood, said Bailey had operated the state party without any hint of dishonesty or corruption. Gov. Ella Grasso, held back tears as she reacted to the allegations against her former political mentor. "There was never anything in John Bailey's manner as I knew him that would give credence to allegations of this nature," Mrs. Grasso said.

RECOVERY TIME UNDER CHIROPRACTIC CARE
For Chiropractic patients, recovery time means the length of time taken to completely and thoroughly correct the underlying cause of the patient's discomfort; that underlying cause being vertebral misalignment producing nerve pressure in the spine. The time it takes for the patient to begin to feel relief of symptoms is usually much shorter than the time it takes to thoroughly correct the long-standing structural misalignments in the spine which were the original cause of nerve pressure producing the symptoms. A temporary relief of symptoms does not necessarily mean that the Chiropractic patient is well. Just as it took time to get sick, it also requires time for the nerve lesions in the spine to thoroughly heal so that the original condition will not reappear. A Chiropractic patient, elated over the absence of symptoms following a short series of Chiropractic adjustments may be too quick to discontinue care thinking he is free of nerve pressure. This impulse to mistake temporary relief for permanent correction must be curbed if the patient is to receive lasting results and a return to normal health.

White House study urges pot law let-up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A White House study Tuesday recommended de-emphasis of marijuana laws and urged President Ford to intervene personally to settle disputes between feuding federal narcotics agencies. Ford called the study a "realistic" assessment of national drug abuse problems and ordered his executive agencies to draft plans within 60 days for carrying out the report's recommendations. White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said the timing of release of the report was unrelated to recent comments by Ford's son Jack on marijuana. Jack told an Oregon newspaper he had tried pot in college, and Ford later said he admired his son's honesty in acknowledging the fact. A government drug abuse source told UPI the report was received last week by the White House and was withheld from the public partly because of Jack Ford's comments. "No, that had nothing to do with it," Nessen said. The study by a Domestic Council Drug Abuse Task Force recommended de-emphasizing marijuana in federal enforcement and treatment efforts and concentrating instead on such drugs as heroin, amphetamines and mixed barbiturates which "pose a greater risk to the individual and society." It said jurisdictional disputes and interagency rivalry between the Drug Enforcement Administration and the Customs Service "hinders the effectiveness of the entire program to reduce the flow of drugs." Ford last spring asked his chief government drug abuse advisers for a "frank appraisal" of the nature and extent of national drug problems. Their answer said drug abuse costs the nation up to $17 billion a year and may be an insoluble problem.

Windy City folks honor U.S., Soviet astronauts

CHICAGO (UPI) — Surrounded by cheering crowds on a Chicago street, Soviet Cosmonaut Alexei A. Leonov turned to Mayor Richard J. Daley Tuesday and said in English, "They talk about you as a very strong man." The mayor, who has been Chicago's political boss for 20 years, smiled, then chuckled, and said, "We try." It was a jovial kickoff to a Chicago-type feting of the Soviet cosmonauts and American astronauts, who are starting a two-week goodwill tour across the United States in celebration of their joint space mission last July. The pilots were driven into the city from O'Hare International Airport in black limousines flying American and Soviet flags. Daley greeted them on a street corner next to the Chicago River. Their arrival was heralded by fireworks and huge streams of pink and blue water spouting from an old Chicago fireboat, "The Joseph Medill." Daley told the visitors the fireboats stemmed from the days when Chicago had frequent fires along the riverfront. "It goes back to the time of the great fire in 1871," he said. The mayor also discussed Chicago architecture briefly, and he said to the space travelers, "You honor us. We're very happy."

Happy birthday on Halloween

By MAUREEN RUFÉ
Pocono Record Reporter
BRODHEADSVILLE — It looks definitely as if the Brodheadsville Kingdom Hall is not being turned into a pizza parlor after all. Glenn Hinton, owner and operator of Mrs. Guida's Pizza in Gilbert, had planned to move to larger quarters and take over the building. But he said this week that he changed his mind and will stay where he is now on Rte. 209.

Ray Kress, chairman of the Hamilton Township Planning Commission just wishes that somebody could take all the goblins and ghosts out of the annual Halloween celebration. It's not that he's a party pooper, but he was born on Halloween Day. If you remember that when Oct. 31 rolls around, send him a card.

Don't forget the Youth For Christ annual RIOT which will be held at 7:29, believe it or not, this Saturday night at the East Stroudsburg gymnasium on North Courtland Street. You'll want to make sure that your high school is well represented and snares at least one first place. Admission is free; the event is open to all local high school students.

A reliable source tells us that it's time for another one of those famous Greenview Farm auctions again this Saturday. A huge roll top desk and an umbrella stand with a marble top are just two of the pieces of memorabilia that will go onto Dick Seidof's auction block this weekend. If you've ever been a guest at the local resort, you might want to pick up a remembrance of the farm.

In case you haven't noticed, the county has finally completed that bridge by the old Davey Griffith farm in Polk Township.

That big district coon hunt is slated for Saturday at the Blue Ridge-Cherry Valley Rod and Gun Club. The activities begin at 2 p.m. and admission is free. Individual dogs will be judged on their breed standard, a treeing contest will follow, and the big wild coon hunt event will kick off at 8 p.m.

from the club. You're invited to go along on a hunt, but you must report to Larry Smeltz before 7:30 p.m. at the club to make the arrangements.

The ads in the daily newspapers have already begun to proclaim the festivities of the Thanksgiving season. Years ago in the West End Thanksgiving signaled a none-too-popular turning point in young teenagers' lives.

That was the day they had to change from their summer long John's to their winter underwear. If you've ever broken in a new set of woollens you know exactly what torture that could be.

The underwear had to be worn until Memorial Day when summer sets were brought out again.

The first week following Thanksgiving, every one-room schoolhouse in the West End smelled like a giant moth ball. Woollens, if they weren't new, were stored away in moth balls during the summer only to emerge again on Turkey Day.

The worst part about the long underwear was the way it stretched by the end of the week. When it was first put on, it fit snugly, but since the average teenager was required to wear the same set of Long Johns a full seven days, by the end of the week, the underwear was three sizes bigger.

Sometimes the thinner young girls in the West End could nearly wrap a leg of their underwear around their leg twice by the end of the week.

A mere 50 years ago, there was not much need for closets and wash was done only once a week. Each child had a school dress or maybe two and a set of Sunday clothes. For the girls, this was a blue serge dress or maybe a sailor outfit. The thing was rarely washed. It was spot cleaned and aired between wearings.

On a brisk autumn day, you can still see some native West End housewives airing their winter clothes outside on clotheslines.

Hamilton planning board still short one member

West End Bureau
SCIOTA — For the second consecutive month, two of the Hamilton Township supervisors have refused to reappoint James Bradley of Bartonsville to the Hamilton Township Planning Commission.

Bradley was nominated Monday night at the regular supervisors meeting again by Supervisor Chairman Robert Field. Loren Fenner and Raymond Mackes again refused to second the motion.

Fenner said he could not second the motion last month because he never was properly introduced to Bradley. Field said Monday night he had offered to introduce Fenner to Bradley this month so that could not be used as an excuse again. Mackes and Fenner would give no reason for not appointing Bradley.

Irritated, Field told the audience at the meeting that it seemed ironic that the other two supervisors refused to reappoint every planning commission member from Field's end of the township. He alluded to the two officials' refusal to reappoint Val Robbins several times last year.

Mackes and Fenner also refused to take definite action to go ahead on enrolling for federal flood insurance; the deadline for applying is Nov. 22 and if the supervisors plan to participate in the program, they will either have to pass a building permit ordinance or their proposed zoning ordinance by that time.

Mackes and Fenner said they would try to set up a joint meeting with a representative from the federal flood insurance program to discuss the matter further.

Mackes and Fenner agreed to set a definite time to name the roads in Hamilton Township on Oct. 30. They also agreed with Field to meet with members of the planning commission to discuss proposed revisions in the Hamilton Township zoning ordinance on Nov. 5.

The supervisors agreed to inspect a property on Rte. 209 just above the John Deere property, to check out claims that junked automobiles are being stored there. The supervisors will report on the matter at their November meeting.

The supervisors officially received a sewage feasibility study for the northern part of Hamilton Township, which was prepared free of charge by PennEast engineers. The firm recommended in the report that installation of central sewage facilities is too costly to be feasible at this time.

Field recommended adoption of the report, but Mackes and Fenner declined to second the motion until they could study the report further.

In other business, mobile home park owner Donald Rubino asked the supervisors why he had to post a bond for the installation of roads, and water and sewer lines at his addition to the Deer Acres Park. The supervisors explained that they were now enforcing their subdivision ordinance, which requires bonding in lieu of com-

Pocket parks one part of plan

Stroudsburg's councilmen have a tough decision on their hands — whether or not to install pocket parks along the borough's Main Street.

What makes it tough is that the parks are just part of an overall plan for the downtown Stroudsburg shopping area, and their existence depends on other elements that haven't yet been implemented.

The Environmental Review Board points out, among other things, that the parks would cause traffic problems. Cited were pedestrian traffic in particular, but the board could have noted the loss of parking spaces, a commodity the borough hasn't got in great supply.

The review board also expressed concern over the twin problems of loitering and vandalism, which go hand in hand. It's a sad commentary that we must worry about such aspects of the community when we're talking about beautifying the area and making a person's sojourn in the shopping center a little more pleasant.

But the board is right. Benches lining Main Street have had to be removed at times because they were used as perches for young railbirds who had nothing better to do than hang around. (That brings up another problem, that of having things to do and places to go for young people, but that's another matter.)

While acknowledging the problems, we still hate to see the pocket park concept go down the drain. The difficulty seems to be in taking a piecemeal approach to restructuring the downtown area. Perhaps it would be better if, instead of brushing the project off entirely, it be slipped back into its place in the downtown development plan until a concerted approach can be made toward implementing it.

Stroudsburg's center is congested as it is. While parks would make the condition worse, it isn't enough to leave matters where they stand. The town fathers should take steps already planned to alleviate the congestion with the fringe area parking in the development concept. Then there would be only the problem of loitering and vandalism to be considered when reviving the pocket parks.

Guest editorial

Judicial funding

When state and county attorneys charged impropriety against presiding Judge Silvestri Silvestri in the $3-million pollution suit involving the U.S. Steel Corp., they called attention to a questionable practice in our political system.

That's the business of lawyers raising money for judicial candidates.

Judge Silvestri is the Republican nominee for State Superior Court at the Nov. 4 election. And the cochairman of one of his fund-raising committees is a lawyer who is associated with a law firm that is representing U.S. Steel before the judge.

This is one of the reasons Judge Silvestri was asked to disqualify himself.

Regardless of what influence this may or may not have on a judge, the challenge does raise a pertinent question: Should individual attorneys get involved in fund-raising or other vote-gathering activities on behalf of judicial candidates?

This occurs in every election campaign, of course. But that doesn't mean the practice is right.

Lawyers naturally will argue that they are better able to judge the caliber of judicial candidates than most other people. But this isn't always true.

In any event, it is difficult to believe that some attorneys plumping for some judicial candidates do not really expect to get some favorable consideration from some judge at some time in the future.

As a matter of fact, some law firms cover all bets by having members divide their public support among a number of judicial candidates. Which certainly smacks of favor-seeking.

As it stands, there is nothing illegal or unethical about this. But it does give the public reason to question the propriety of such campaign conduct.

Perhaps now is time for the bar associations to put a stop to this type of electioneering.

A new mare!

A small boy returned home from school and told his father that he was second in his class. Top place, he explained, was held by a girl. "Surely, John," said the father, "you're not going to be beaten by a mere girl!"

"Well, you see, Father," explained John, "girls are not nearly as mere as they used to be."

Nowadays!

Ford trying to breed a miracle energy machine

Nicholas Von Hoffman

Another part of the Family Man's energy program, if you can call his inchoate bundle of notions a program, is billions for research and development, especially for atomic energy. Here we can see the difference between a modern conservative and a modern liberal. A liberal believes money will cure any social problem; a conservative believes money will cure any economic one, and President Ford has some terrible economic problems connected with atomic energy.

The first is that if we build many more atomic power plants we may not have the fuel to run them. Uranium is in such short supply that Westinghouse Electric has been forced to restrict deliveries to its customers, the utility companies. So much for the advertising that told us the atom represents an assured, cheap, infinite source of energy.

It does in theory and it might in practice, if somebody can find a few more uranium deposits such as those which were discovered in New Mexico in the early '50s. But you can say the same of oil. If they can find about 30 billion barrels of it underneath South Philadelphia, we could keep our wheat and tell the Russians to go dance the kazatsky. There is also foreign uranium, but only a man with the talents of Mr. Zarb, our energy czar can explain why it might be desirable to be dependent on foreign uranium but not foreign oil.

Another hope is generation of electricity with the breeder reactor which, again theoretically, recycles its own fuel thereby obviating the need of buying anybody's uranium. Good idea, but the only commercial one ever built was the notorious Enrico Fermi plant outside of Detroit. It had an $80 million cost overrun and has yet to generate enough electricity to run a flashlight. Aside from the fact that some people consider breeder reactors as dangerous atomic time bombs, after 20 years of R&D and more money than you can count spent on them, even the optimists aren't predicting they'll be on line before the early 1990s.

Nothing going on

Maybe if the Democrats spend enough money on social workers, they'll wipe out crime, and, maybe, if Ford spends enough on engineers he'll get himself a breeder reactor that will at least generate enough juice to turn on the light in the hall closet. But in the meantime a prudent nation should have something else going for it. We don't have much.

The Federal Energy Research and Development Administration is still headed in the direction of high-cost, highly centralized, iffy technologies of the breeder reactor variety. Wilson Clark, the director of the Environmental Policy Institute and a gifted analyst of the meld of economics and technology in this area, observes that the traditional reluctance to support low-cost, modest programs, especially in solar energy, persists. The government's policy seems to be that unless a solar energy device can entirely replace other power sources, it isn't worth fooling with. Moreover, Clark reports that, as so often happens with government research, the administrators are sunk into financing work that has already been done. "Reinventing a gold-plated wheel," is what he calls it.

Clark's approach is bizzazz-deficient. Nothing for an elective official to boast of in front of the voters. A President wants to say to us that his $100 billion crash program has smashed us into a new epoch. He envisions that scene in which he is led to the miracle machine's switch by the chairman of the board of Universal Neutron, the ultimate energy conglomerate. There they throw the switch, once again demonstrating how partnership between business and government works to the advantage of all.

That's a heck of a lot better than coming on the tube and saying, "Hi, Fellow Americans, I want to announce we've just perfected a new generation of superior windmills. It's not energy independence, folks, but if we run out of uranium, it's going to help."

Could it happen here?

WASHINGTON — A chilling question was thrust into what started out to be a rather placid dinner table conversation among friends.

There was casual talk about the military regime in Portugal, the turmoil in Spain and the loss of political freedom in many parts of the world.

And then came the time bomb: What about the United States? Will it happen here? Can we assume that our own democracy will not slip into some kind of dictatorship?

It is suggestive that nobody shrugged it off as an utter impossibility. None thought it probable, but no one seemed to think the speculation was idle or that he could say with assurance, no, it can't happen here, ever.

Could it?

There are some disturbing precedents to look at.

Before political power became so concentrated in Washington, we used to point to the states as the source for political experimentation.

One state has already experimented with dictatorship or had it thrust upon it. In Louisiana Huey Long established a one-man control of the entire state in the 1930s and 1940s, and for a time a quiescent people and an intimidated legislature acquiesced.

In the terrible depression of the 1930s, the pervasive mood of the country was that whatever President Franklin Roosevelt wanted should be done forthwith and without questioning. Congress rushed to obey. F. D. R. showed legislation for a hundred days, and Congress often passed his bills without even reading them.

Then, when the Supreme Court began to exercise independent judgment and found a number of New Deal measures unconstitutional the President tried to put the court under his control with a court-packing plan which would have added nine more Roosevelt-appointed justices at once.

Roscoe

At this point the nation became alert to what was happening and aroused against it. The public, the Congress, his own party turned against the President's scheme to pack the Supreme Court. It was defeated overwhelmingly, and in the next congressional elections F. D. R. lost 75 seats in the House of Representatives.

Thus the ingredients of a potential American dictatorship were dissolved.

Today the deterrents to a dictatorship are, I think, very great. I cite these:

1—Congress steadily recapturing its eroded power.

2—The prestige of the Supreme Court which overruled Franklin Roosevelt, Harry Truman and Richard Nixon.

3—The continuing firm and total civilian control of the military and the unbroken acceptance of that control by the armed forces.

4—The aggressive independence of the media which, whatever their shortcomings, will not tolerate loss of the freedom.

It could happen here, but as long as the American government can be changed by free elections, I believe it won't.

Shortage of natural gas seems altogether unnatural

Jack Anderson
With Les Whitten

Only two full-time people have been assigned to go through 109 crates of documents in the case. They have only one lawyer working with them, but he is also assigned to two other investigations.

The Commission has other natural gas probes under way, but they also suffer from understaffing.

One is supposed to determine whether there is more gas available in wells that the industry has shut down, as some critics have alleged.

The FPC has received 50 volumes of technical material on the case from gas producers. The staff working on the investigation, therefore, asked Chairman Nassikas for an expert consultant to help them decipher the data.

Internal FPC memos show that the request was made in July. But two months and a flurry of memos later, Nassikas finally decided that the funds for a consultant were not available.

Nine months of staff work has gurgled down the drain, and the producers' side of the story has yet to be investigated.

Nassikas, apparently, is more interested in getting the gas industry higher prices. And those higher prices will mean higher utility bills for American consumers.

Kennerly controversy: The most controversial figure in the White House is turning out to be David Hume Kennerly, the former Associated Press photographer whom President Ford personally chose to be his official lensman.

Kennerly, who is close to the Ford family and members of the international jet set, has brought some of the world's most glamorous figures to the White House, creating a few minor scandals in the process. He is also brash and does not hesitate to express his unsolicited views in White House policy councils.

He has thus managed to offend top Ford aides, who feel that a photographer's opinions on profound domestic and world affairs are scarcely worth listening to. Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen, say our White House sources, is particularly upset with Kennerly's antics.

In an effort to ease him out, therefore, top White House officials have begun spreading stories about Kennerly. One of the tales they have been whispering is that he accepted a $790, leather-encased edition of a new oil game called "Petropolis" from rock music superstar Mick Jagger.

This would be a gross violation of a White House regulation which forbids any official from accepting a gift valued in excess of $25. Kennerly, moreover, is on friendly terms with Jagger's jet set wife, Bianca. On its face, therefore, the story appears credible.

We carefully checked the story and found it to be only partially true. Kennerly was indeed given a Petropolis game worth $790, but not by Jagger. It came instead from Baron Arnaud de Rosnay, another international socialite and the inventor of the game. Kennerly, to his credit, realized it would be improper to accept the gift, so he returned it.

Footnote: We made repeated calls to Kennerly for comment, but he never returned them.

Home health care one way to cut hospital costs

(Second of four columns)

Sylvia Porter

You can help hold down your hospital costs by not entering the hospital one hour before you have to (using Pre-Admission Testing or PAT). And you also can help slash those costs by getting out of the hospital as fast as you can and convalescing at home.

A startling estimate is that 75,000 patients in the U.S. — or about 6 per cent of those in hospitals on an average day — actually could be cared for at home, at a cost only one-third as much as care in a hospital. What's more, under some modern home health-care programs, you get virtually the same range of services you would get in the hospital.

Consider, for instance, the young Detroit housewife who was hospitalized with multiple fractures suffered in an auto accident. After several weeks in the hospital, she was sent home to convalesce. The hospital provided her with a hi-lo hospital bed, overbed table and medical supplies. Under her physician's supervision, a nurse and physiotherapist visited her twice a week to administer drugs and give her therapy. An ambulance whisked her to the hospital periodically for checkups and for revision of her cast.

You may not be aware of it, but it's likely your Blue Cross or other health insurance coverage now pays for these and other services. Currently, 54 of the 73 Blue Cross Plans in the U.S. offer home-care benefits to more than 37 million of their subscribers.

The benefits, though, vary widely — with only a handful covering home care that does not follow hospitalization. But because of the Blue Cross Assn.'s belief in its potential for "favorably impacting the cost and quality of health care services," it is now developing guidelines for a home health-care benefit package.

Included in such benefits would be not only those already listed but also: speech therapy, occupational therapy, home health aide-home-maker services, electrocardiography, oxygen treatment, nutritional guidance, laboratory tests and X-ray services, equipment such as wheel chairs and walkerettes, even medical social services.

Home care is growing rapidly for these key reasons: days spent on home care do not reduce the number of inpatient benefit days to which you are entitled and many Plans provide it as a benefit at no extra charge; convalescing or chronically ill patients often feel more comfortable at home and find the quality of care at least as high as that in the hospital; terminally ill persons may prefer home care for psychological reasons.

You don't need to have home care unless you want it, and on the other hand not every patient is accepted for home care. Taken into consideration are the suitability of your home and the nature of your illness. Most cases are orthopedic (fractures), cardiovascular and cancer.

Possible savings

Highly significant are the possible savings. In Rochester, N.Y., for instance, scene of one of the most comprehensive programs in the country, the local Blue Cross Plan says that some 220 patients are being treated at home at an average daily cost of $18 as against a $116 daily cost in the hospital.

In a Connecticut program, a study of 991 patients showed a total saving of 8,919 hospital days — an average of nine days per home care case, resulting in savings of $801,511.

In Louisville, Ky., one woman who had run up hospital bills of $12,227 over a seven-month span, was put on home care. Over the next 13 months, her bills amounted to only $1,100.

In Rhode Island, just two hospitals estimated their 328 home-care patients resulted in total savings of 6,944 hospital days, the equivalent of one person occupying a hospital bed for 19 straight years!

Other studies have shown from 10.2 to 18.5 days saved per case, with savings per case from $330 to $900.

The implications of the savings go far beyond these personal items, for with the freeing of hospital beds, the need for new hospitals decreases. The Rochester home care program, for example, eliminated the need for a $35 million hospital building program already on schedule for that area.

Police chief has age problem

BUNNELL, Fla. (UPI) — The new police chief in Bunnell is too young to buy bullets for his gun.

He really cannot buy a gun, either, unless he writes a letter to himself, giving himself permission.

Donald Brook, a teen-age cop who took over as chief in this Flagler County town of 1,500 last week, is the victim of a federal firearms act which prohibits the sale of handguns or ammunition to persons under 21.

Brook, who is 19 and pledges a crackdown on juvenile delinquency, can arm himself after a little paper work.

Tom Stokes, resident agent in charge of the Orlando office of the Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, said the Gun Control Act of 1968 does make exceptions for law enforcement officials if they have written permission from their chief.

So Brook will have to write a letter to himself saying that the purchase of ammunition is for law enforcement purposes.

"We have a lot of police officers who are under the age limit and run into this problem," Stokes said. "In this case, since he is the chief, there's still no problem. All he has to do is write a letter to himself saying he can purchase a handgun because he is a police officer."

Stokes said there is nothing illegal about a teen-ager possessing a gun. It's just the sale to them that's against the law.

State Rep. William Gorman, R-Tangerine, said he believes the law technically opposes itself since a law passed since then gives majority rights to 18-year-olds.

"I don't think it was the intent of Congress to give 18-year-olds majority rights and leave this one out," Gorman said. "It's not keeping with the spirit of the law and I think if it ever comes before a court of law it would be thrown out."

Road lobby claims Pa. bridges unsafe

HARRISBURG (UPI) — A lobbying group for the highway construction industry said Tuesday more than one-fourth of Pennsylvania's 20,200 bridges are structurally deficient or obsolete.

Lottery panel pays good wages

HARRISBURG (UPI) — The Auditor General's office Tuesday reported that Mrs. Vergia Thomas of Philadelphia, a Shapp appointee to the Lottery Commission, was paid $32,596 for attending commission meetings and lottery drawings in the last four years.

Auditor General Robert Casey released individual per diem expense figures for Lottery Commission members after a spokesman for his department told a House subcommittee last week the commission had a do-nothing record and had cost $66,000.

Casey said that another commission member, retired Wilkes-Barre editor Joseph Collis, had challenged the Casey figures as unrealistic and said his own compensation totaled $6,800.

The auditor general said records show Collis had been paid $11,825 since July 1, 1971.

are structurally deficient or obsolete.

The Road Information Program, based in Washington, said a study it conducted showed that 5,939 Pennsylvania bridges cannot meet federal engineering standards.

TRIP officials said the most serious deficiencies involve 242 bridges that are too weak structurally to handle maximum vehicle weights.

"A far more prevalent safety hazard exists where narrow clearances, dangerous approaches and badly worn deck surfaces increase the chance of accidents on bridges," the group said.

State TRIP chairman Henry D. Harral, former secretary of transportation, said it "doesn't make sense to have one construction worker in every six unemployed when one bridge in every four needs repairs."

He estimated it would cost about $391 million to restore the 1,212 most seriously deficient bridges, based on 1974 average bridge replacement costs.

The repair program, according to Harral, could create 1,709 jobs for a year for construction workers and employees in related industries.

"In view of the large number of substandard bridges in Pennsylvania and other states, the nation needs more than a token federal-aid bridge program," Harral said.

Jack O'Brian's

Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Bet a Coolidge dollar that Silent Cal's Veep Charles G. Dawes never dreamed he'd composed a combination Louis Armstrong-Nashville country music smash when he turned out a capitol little tune he called "Melody" back in the '20s: Fritz Kreisler and other classicalists fiddling around used it as a semi-pop encore until Carl Sigman attached a tidy lyric decades later. It became one of Satchmo's greatest record hits and now takes southern root in Nashville's Country Music Awards next week — ASCAP gives the durable Dawes-Sigman song one of its Country Music Awards Oct. 15 for its Jerry Jaye-performed barnyard version: it certainly suggests the Nashville sound keeps looking carefully for fine melody while rock rolls its noise acidly through vulnerable Eustachian tubes; with the help of such improved use of fine melodies, ASCAP had its greatest country music year ever — its estimated growth more than 400 per cent during the past decade.

Betimes, still another Scott Joplin musical enters the lists via off-Broadway's AMAS Repertory Theater Inc., 263 W. 86th St., N.Y. City . . . "The Ragtime Blues" will have Joplin's early-century songs adapted by Mitch Douglas (lyrics, melodies and book) in a "musical biography" of Joplin's life from Texas boyhood to his 1917 death in New York; amazing, the eruption of Joplin's success after his especially ugly passing in poverty following a successful ragtime-musical life and the extended incumbency of what now seems to promise permanent popularity . . . Sad, too, the current strike of 200 musicians completely savaging all of Bdw's musicals, which were to include at last the bigtime premiere of Scott Joplin's 1915 opera "Treemonisha" at the Uris Theater, where only Sinatra's Ella-Basie concert was able to finish its $1,000,000-plus run unmolested by the union while all other Bdw. tune shows had to fold; the Joplin hard luck carries on.

Actors, backstage unions and other theatrical workers are being queried for any info they might have of featherbedded musicians being paid for not working — who have other jobs and aren't the victims of one-note joblessness.

In the stylish new Le Cirque restaurant, Bill Zeckendorf Jr. at the next table seemed to be persuading three rich-looking Jordanians to invest in either a hotel or in several Z. Jr. had in mind . . . CBS-TV's Joel Siegel, accompanying a lady getting a hairdo in Davir's Madison Ave. atelier, was greeted delightedly by several ladies who mistook Joel's handlebar moustaches for the TV signature of NBC's man-about-movies Gene Shalit; Joel escaped behind a morning paper.

The brand new huge-TV screens (some projecting a picture up to 84 by 60 inches) are turning up in East Side pubs — early TV sets flourished in saloons before the public bought in (McMasters had one and September's fall model was delivered) . . . Sony's advertising a nifty 3½-foot by 2½-foot model and famed early-TV big-picture promoter Earl Madman Muntz is peddling truly giant-sized sets: remember when stores advertised "Giant life-sized TV Pictures" — 12 inches?

The table-traffic at "21" was so jammed a table for Gov. Hugh Carey and a dozen pals couldn't be found; and business at Catch a Rising Star was so almost-holiday-huge that the owner had to tell Telly Savalas the bald truth — not a table left in the joint . . . The Rising Star format — giving random performers a chance to be seen all-nightly — has proof of its sudden success: four clubs in other towns have lifted the club's name . . . Jet receiver Eddie Bell has furtherproof than the statistics that he's now a star: some phony bum checked a limousine driver for $300 and it wasn't Eddie . . . Martina Navratilova, who skipped through the Iron Curtain to American affluence (Currently Martina's in the $50,000 Mission Viejo Women's pro tennis classic), has her first true capitalist home — elegant digs she's just taken a Newport Beach's swank Promontory Point.

Actors George Segal and John Amos claim separately to be "The First Jewish Cowboy" but they're both wrong, in both reel and real life; not even second; or fifth . . . It's a delicious daughter for Ellen and Ted Brennan of the New Orleans Brennan's restaurant clan; the tasty dish was named Alana Michelle.

The imminent revival of "Roberta" will have costumes (part of the fashion-oriented musical's plot) by Oscar de la Renta; unusual also is the fact that great classical ballet dancer Anton Dolin will play the role of "Lord Henry"; Elizabeth Hubbard of TV's soap opera "The Doctors" will play "Stephanie." "Roberta" boasts a remarkably beautiful musical score by Jerome Kern and only the finest lyrics by Otto Harbach. The late great Otto's handiwork transcended the limitations of popular rhymes, managed actually to shift from musical comedy to, in lyrical truth, poetry; nothing less may be applied to the rich, deep, intellectually superior sentiments set to such Kern melodies as the show's greatest hit "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," but even the warmth of that sad-sweet song is more than matched by such oddly less-known lyrics as the enchanting "Yesterdays," the poignantly lovely — and brief, 16 bars — "The Touch of Your Hand," the stylishly adoring "You're Devastating," the romantically assertive "Let's Begin."

Even the movie version of the longrun Bdw. musical (produced by the masterful Max Gordon) added only quality songs for its cinematic needs; it took Dorothy Fields, Oscar Hammerstein II, Otto Harbach and Jimmy McHugh to turn out the film musical classic, "I Won't Dance," while Dorothy Fields and Jimmy McHugh added the idolizing "Lovely to Look At." These were marvelous songs in 1933 that have deepened in their quality appeal through the decades . . . We trust Anton Dolin doesn't mind that our suspicions of his passing were savagely exaggerated: he's only 71 by our Encyclopedia of the Arts and alongside a few of his British stage-contemporaries he's just a kid.

Ann Landers

Eating habits

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the letter from the restaurant owner who didn't know what to do about those slob who bought Chinese food at a carryout joint down the street, brought the cartons into his place, took a booth, and helped themselves to the salt and pepper, napkins, and silverware. They soiled the tablecloth, used the washroom, said goodbye and left no tip. The mess — including the floor — took 15 minutes to clean up.

Of course these people are trash but how different are they, really, from the celebrities who bring their so-called "health food" to the most exclusive bistros in Hollywood? I've seen these Big Names take plastic sacks out of their tote bags, eat the carrots, lettuce, green peppers and radishes, order a glass of skim milk, and get treated like queens.

The waiters knock themselves out for these people because they are well known. Why does the management overlook such nonsense? It irritates me no end. Please comment. —

Resident of Beverly Hills, Cal.

Dear Beverly: The answer is found in your letter. "Because they are well known."

The persons who frequent these bistros are willing to pay top dollar so they can go home and say they saw Gloria Swanson or Carol Channing.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 19-year-old girl who has been trying to deal with a problem for two years, but I'm getting nowhere. Will you please get it all together for me?

There were seven kids in our family. My oldest brother, Jeff, died in 1973, on his 21st birthday. Now there are six kids left — four boys and two girls.

Whenever I meet someone new they ask about my brothers and sisters. I don't know whether to say I have four brothers or five. I hate to leave Jeff out. Even though he is dead he is still very much a part of my life.

Next the question of his age — should I say 21, the age Jeff was when he died, or should I say 23: Please help me, Ann. I still get crying spells when I think of what a great guy he was. —

Grieving Sister

Dear Grieving: Say, "There were seven kids in our family — five boys and two girls — until two years ago, when my brother Jeff died. He was 21. So now there are only six of us and we miss Jeff every day of our lives."

After you've said it once or twice it will be easier. But do memorize the speech and get it out somehow because unless you tackle it now it will be a problem forever.

Dear Ann Landers: It is 3:00 a.m. I had to get out of bed and write this letter and tell you how right you are. My son was like "Harold" and I was too blind to see it.

too much for him and a lot of it was damaging.

Harold is 21, and can't decide what pair of slacks to wear to church. He couldn't stay in a college 40 miles from home because he missed me. He won't date girls because they are "boring." He doesn't have any friends because they are "too rough." In short, the boy is a mess and I'm to blame. I feel better for this confession. Thank you. —

Damn Fool Mother

Dear Mother: Your confession doesn't help Harold much. Your son needs counseling and I urge you to see that he gets it at once.

CONFIDENTIAL to Please Research And Print It: Sen. James Buckley said of Rep. Wilbur Mills, "Anyone who has spent 20 years trying to understand the American budget is entitled to go nuts."

Local B.P.W. club plans to observe national week

STROUDSBURG — National Business and Professional Women's Week, Oct. 19-25, will begin with a statewide Cavalcade. The executive officers of the Pennsylvania Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs will travel in assigned areas throughout the Commonwealth.

Mrs. Virginia G. Spither, first vice president, Vandergrift, representative to District Eight, will arrive at the Wilkes-Barre-Scranton airport on Friday, Oct. 17, where a delegation led by Agnes Sorber, director of District Eight, will meet her and escort her to the Scranton area where they will receive an official welcome by the Scranton club and city dignitaries.

The visitors will tour Marywood college and attend a banquet.

On Saturday, Oct. 18 the Cavalcade will go from Scranton to tour District Eight. The Tunkhannock, Towanda, Athens, Sayre, Montrose, and Louise Bache clubs will host the Cavalcade members for breakfast at Shadow Brook Inn, Tunkhannock.

There will be a whistle stop at Carbondale enroute to Wayne County where the Carbondale, Olyphant, Peckville, Blakely, Nellie Jane DeWitt and Forest City clubs will join the Cavalcade to Honesdale to be welcomed by the Wayne County club and county officials. A luncheon at Bethany Colony Lodge will follow.

Other stops will be made at Wilkes-Barre, Hazleton, Berwick, Bloomsburg, and Stroudsburg.

The Stroudsburg arrival is planned for 2:15 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 25. The Cavalcade will have a police escort from the Clearview School on North Fifth St. to the Monroe County Court House.

Mayor Warren F. Loney will present a key to the city to Mrs. Spither. Officials from the local club will present her with a laurel bush as a remembrance of this area.

The local B.P.W. Club will begin its week with a breakfast at the Holiday Inn in Bartonsville on Sunday, Oct. 19 at 9 a.m. District Director Agnes Sorber will be a guest.

Extension schedules dinner

MARSHALLS CREEK — The Monroe County Cooperative Extension Service will hold its annual dinner meeting at 7 p.m., Monday, Oct. 27 at Mountain Lake House in Marshalls Creek, according to John Withrow, County Extension Director.

Joe Macialek, Area Resource Development Agent and a recent participant in the Kellogg Foundation Public Affairs program, will show slides and relate the industry and agriculture of Germany, the Netherlands and Tunisia to that of the United States.

New members to the Board of Directors for Cooperative Extension will also be elected at this meeting.

The dinner cost is $5. Reservations may be made by calling the Extension Office at 421-6430 before October 18th.

Gardeners go Oriental

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Garden Club will hold its monthly meeting on Thursday, Oct. 16 at the East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church.

The program will be presented by Mrs. Robert Hartman who will show slides and artifacts to illustrate a talk on "Gardens and Views of the Orient."

Arrangements in an Oriental style and accessories will be permitted. All members are asked to bring artificial flowers, fruit, etc. to the meeting for future workshop projects.

Tea will be at 1:15 p.m. and the business session at 2.

Bridge winners announced

EAST STROUDSBURG — East-West winners in the weekly Pocono Bridge Club game were: Al Shrive and F. G. Stoddard, first; Herb Kistler and Myrtle Deming, second; and Marge Jones and Bobbie Marsh, third.

North-South winners were: Bertha Salerni and Sue Saganich, first; Eda Effross and Judy Brown, second; and Tim Uhl and Frank Feldman, third.

The club is accredited by the American Contract Bridge League and meets every Tuesday evening at 7:30 in Dansbury Commons on the East Stroudsburg State College campus. Pairs or single players are invited.

Teenagers' coffee house turns them on to religion

By MAUREEN RUFÉ
Pocono Record Reporter
KUNKLETOWN — More than a dozen teenagers are getting intoxicated every Friday night at St. Matthew's Church in Kunkletown and the pastor there doesn't mind a bit.

In fact, members of the congregation have actually been encouraging more teenagers to drink in some of the wine offered at the regular Bread of Life coffee house that meets there at 7:30 p.m. every week.

The reason nobody objects to the goings on is because the drink being offered is the new wine of salvation and the young West End teenagers are reportedly becoming intoxicated on the Holy Ghost.

Formed in July by three young Kunkletown Christians in their 20's, in conjunction with a 33-year-old Bible school graduate from Stroudsburg, the unique outreach ministry has been responsible for leading 12 teenagers to accept Jesus Christ as their personal savior and has provided an informal coffee house singing session and Bible talk each Friday night for the new converts.

Carol and Scott Ruddy and Vicki Gioia of Kunkletown and Bob Titcomb of Stroudsburg, in addition to hosting the Friday evening coffee houses at St. Matthew's Church, have also begun to witness about Christ one night a week to young people living in areas from Stroudsburg to Lehigh-ton. Young people are also encouraged to attend a special prayer meeting held once a week at Princess Lake.

The concept for the unique coffee house ministry for West End teenagers became a reality when Titcomb, who had long wanted to establish a Christian coffee house for young people in the area, met the Princess Lake residents at a group meeting he was holding at the Stroudsburg YMCA. Coming from a Plainfield, N.J. church that sponsored a coffee house ministry of its own, the Kunkletown residents shared their ideas on a youth program with Titcomb.

The ministry officially began in July in Kunkletown and at the present time plays host to 15 to 30 teenagers each Friday night. The sessions, although unstructured, usually include an hour of singing and praise to God, with the accompaniment of a snare drum, guitars and tambourine.

Coffee and cake are free and the session also includes a Bible rap or informal group discussion on a particular text of the Bible. There is also an opportunity to testify about what God has been doing in each of the teenagers' lives during the week and time to request special prayer for problems during the coming week.

The coffee house is interdenominational and is supported completely with free will offerings donated to the group at the Friday night meetings. The coffee house organizers stress that they are all born again Christians, or Christians that have accepted Jesus Christ as their personal savior.

"We've been growing very slowly, but we are finding that God is concentrating on making us a team first," said Titcomb, who one day hopes the coffee house can become an every night program for local youth. "We're primarily interested in bringing teenagers to Christ, getting them off the streets and getting them off drugs and alcohol if they have gotten into that sort of thing."

The coffee house is open to anybody, regardless of age, and the young people who are launching the new program in the West End are looking eventually for a spot that is centrally located where they can open a coffee house on a regular basis.

Titcomb came to Stroudsburg from Providence, R.I., two years ago and attended Columbia Bible College for two years and Zion Bible College for two years. The girls involved in the program have taught vacation Bible school at St. Matthew's Church and have worked with mentally retarded children in the past. Ruddy is an accomplished musician and provides much of the music for the coffee house ministry.

The Bread of Life coffee house will sponsor its next special program at 7:30 p.m., Friday, Oct. 24 at the Kunkletown Church. A 40-minute color film called "To Russia With Love," which tells the stories of evangelists that have smuggled Bibles behind the Iron Curtain, will be shown. The film is free and open to the public.

If enough people express interest, the film will also be shown on Saturday, Oct. 25, at the church.

Federation of clubs originally militant

SWIFTWATER — The Federation of Woman's Clubs was started as a rather militant organization to push for women's suffrage, declared Mrs. George Schimpf at the Woman's Club of the Stroudsburgs' luncheon Monday at the Swiftwater Inn.

Speaking on the history and work of the federation, Mrs. Schimpf, president of the Monroe County Federation of Woman's Clubs, added that the federation was responsible for the present child labor laws.

The aim of the Pennsylvania Federation of Woman's Clubs is 76,000 members by 1976. The Woman's Club of the Stroudsburgs, with a present membership of 150, is trying for 176 by 1976.

The local club in earlier days promoted the planting of suffrage gardens with bright yellow flowers to focus attention on its cause. It also instituted a wagon garbage collection system to clean up unsightly vacant lots.

Money to buy the Stroud Mansion was also raised by the club which now contributes $1200 a year to support it.

The next meeting of the group will be held on Nov. 10 and will feature Mrs. Horace Westbrook. She will give an illustrated talk on "Off to Africa with Granny."

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Kichline

Fiftieth wedding anniversary celebrated by Luther Kichlines

EAST BANGOR — Mr. and Mrs. Luther Kichline, 120 S. High St., East Bangor, observed their fiftieth wedding anniversary on Oct. 10. They were married on Oct. 10, 1925 by Rev. J. C. Black at Elkton, Md.

Born on March 29, 1907 in Bethlehem, Mrs. Kichline is the former Florence E. Stocker, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Stocker. She is also a great granddaughter of the late Robert M. Jones, the founder of Bangor. She formerly worked for Country Miss.

Her husband was born in Washington Township on Oct. 27, 1897, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Kichline. He is retired from Albion Slate Quarry and is also the retired assistant chief of police of East Bangor.

Mr. and Mrs. Kichline have four daughters: Mrs. Lucy Brittain, East Bangor; Mrs. Evelyn Hoskin, Bangor; Mrs. Marion Shumaker and Mrs. Martha Farleigh, both of East Bangor. A son, Leroy, died in infancy.

There are 16 grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Kichline are members of the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, East Bangor.

Executive powers discussed

HENRYVILLE — In a discussion of presidential powers at its Oct. 9 meeting, the Monroe County League of Women Voters reached a consensus on two questions considered and were undecided on one other.

The group voted to support changes in the following powers of the President of the United States: executive agreements, war powers, emergency powers, and fiscal policy powers.

As to the system of presidential succession, the women voted against any change.

The vote was undecided on changing the terms of office a president may serve.

Politicians have 3 chances for change

WASHINGTON (U P I) — American politicians who have been moaning and whining about the low level of public respect for themselves and their calling are going to have a chance to do something about it in 1976.

Recent events have made possible radical changes in future election campaigns. It will be up to the candidates and their managers to determine whether those changes will start repairing of the sorry image of politics in this country or will simply strengthen the public's present "don't give a damn" feeling.

Three factors with potential for change in politics come to mind.

First, the new campaign finance laws. Second, the recent Federal Communications Commission ruling on "equal time" requirements. Third, the renewed concern for candidate safety. None of these guarantee a better brand of politics for Americans, but all could contribute to improvement if the politicians choose to use them with that in mind.

The 1974 federal campaign finance law and the dozens of recently enacted state statutes seeking to bring some law and order to the political jungle should, at the minimum, stem the tide of gimmicky sales blitzes that have passed for political campaigns in recent years. One common denominator of these laws is to limit spending, and that will require leaner campaigns. Candidates will have a new chance to choose campaign priorities, and those who are seeking the presidency with federal subsidies may think twice before they spend taxpayers' funds on catchy sloganeering and costly campaign extravaganzas.

The new laws also emphasize disclosure and limit individual contributions. If the politicians are willing to accept the intent of the laws and do not spend all their time looking for loopholes, the people who cast the votes may begin to believe the candidates are talking to them rather than to fat cat contributors.

The FCC ruling — ending the requirement that broadcasters give all candidates equal air time if they carry debates or news conferences by any candidates — makes it economically feasible for the networks and local stations to bring back the format of the 1960 Kennedy-Nixon confrontations at all levels of politics.

But here too the politicians will make the crucial decisions. If the candidates, especially the incumbent officeholders, refuse to debate, there is nothing the broadcasters can do to force them, and the forum that seemed to have such potential 15 years ago will remain in mothballs.

The third factor is something positive that could come out of the negative fact that there are still people who try to shoot politicians when they appear in public.

Forcing candidates to hide from the public obviously is no kind of improvement, but there are perfectly valid ways to campaign besides wading into crowds.

If the new awareness of security puts a damper on mindless flesh-pressing and motorcade arm-waving in favor of old-fashioned speaking and writing about the issues at stake in the election, the public could benefit. There is, after all, nothing really wrong with a candidate trying to win votes by demonstrating that he has a good idea instead of a firm handshake.

Fromme judge perfect blend

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UP I) — Thomas J. MacBride, the federal judge who will preside over the trial of Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme accused of attempting to assassinate President Ford, is a blend of politician, civic activist, family man, and presidential campaigner.

Shortly after his 1961 appointment to the bench by President John F. Kennedy, MacBride sent newsmen a photograph of himself for their files.

"I don't know whether I will ever again be involved in any newsworthy items," MacBride wrote.

"In the event no occasion arises for the use of the enclosed picture, then hang it somewhere," he jested. "But don't tell me where."

MacBride had no way of knowing that 13 years later the world would be watching his court room and the trial of dedicated Manson cultist "Squeaky" Fromme, the first person under an 11-year-old law to be charged with trying to murder the President of the United States.

The frail 26-year-old redhead is accused of pointing a loaded .45 caliber pistol at Ford Sept. 5 as he walked through sunlit Capitol Park in Sacramento shaking the hands of well-wishers. She was knocked to the ground by a Secret Service agent and the big black pistol was wrenched from her hand.

MacBride has acquired a reputation for eminent fairness from the bench which perhaps is surpassed only by his quality for putting nervous defendants and attorneys at ease with easygoing humor.

The 61-year-old jurist, whose eyes twinkle behind his contemporary wire rim glasses, seems to eschew many of the cloistered trappings of a United States judge in favor of a more informal approach.

For example, it is not unusual for MacBride to put aside his judicial business to personally accept telephone calls of reporters seeking information.

MacBride's fascination with politics drew him to the legislature in 1955 where he served as a Democratic assemblyman. The few remaining legislators who served with him remember MacBride as "straight and fair" in the backbiting world of politics.

"He was a grand legislator. A man of great balance, extraordinarily competent and a sense of humor," recalled 75-year-old Assemblyman Frank Lanterman, R-La Canada. "Judge MacBride is clear, concise and has the ability to cut through a lot of guff to get to the truth."

After serving five years in the Assembly, MacBride, who was considered more liberal than his powerful legislative colleague Jesse Unruh, retired to build up his private law practice and support his wife and four children.

His departure from politics didn't last long.

A member of a well-known Sacramento family which once owned the city's largest candy factory, MacBride became the county chairman for John F. Kennedy's presidential bid in 1960 and months later was appointed as the second U.S. district court judge for Sacramento. He previously campaigned for Democratic presidential hopefuls Adlai Stevenson and Estes Kefauver.

During World War II, he was a member of the staff of Gen. Douglas MacArthur and participated in the bloody battles to recapture Pacific Islands from the Japanese.

After graduation from the University of California law school at Berkeley, MacBride was hired as a law clerk by then-Attorney General Earl Warren. Later, Warren promoted him to deputy attorney general.

Often described as likable and kind, MacBride, as one of his friends put it, "at the same time makes it clear that he will be the one who calls the shots."

In an unexpected move, MacBride agreed to allow Lynette Fromme to defend herself against the attempted Presidential assassination charge, which could, if she is found guilty, lock her up in prison for life.

Your Horoscope

Frances Drake

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — You could make a profitable financial deal but, even if asked, keep the details to yourself. Some would gladly try to take advantage of your good fortune.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — Certain complexities need unravelling, and YOU can right them. A good day for handling tricky situations, mediating disputes.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — Face possible changes with equanimity. With YOUR know-how and ingenuity, you can cope. Romance in high favor.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — Recall an old tack or maneuver that could inspire, invigorate this day. Not everything new is THE thing, you know.

LEO (July 24 to August 23) — Keep on your toes now. Sudden intrusions or interruptions will call for unusual diplomacy in handling.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23) — Mercury auspicious. Put your mind and keen powers of observation to work, but DON'T make impulsive decisions. A good day for accomplishment.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23) — A generally good outlook. But tackle all "musts" before undertaking new activities — many of which promise to be unusually attractive.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22) — A better day and better possibilities than may seem apparent at first. Planetary influences should stimulate your ambitions and your incentive.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21) — A good period for revitalizing all projects, for capitalizing on unusual ideas and revamping outdated methods. Many hidden benefits awaiting you.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) — Don't reject suggestions without giving them thorough consideration. You may overlook an idea which COULD be developed properly. Domestic concerns especially favored.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — In whatever you do or say, emphasize your most charming manner, which can outwit competition, help prevent friction. News of interest indicated.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) — Even if hours are short and there is much to be accomplished, make time for efficient planning. A good period for revitalizing all interests.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a fine mind, a lively imagination and unusual technical ability; are highly inventive and give an artistic touch to whatever you do. The Libran can become an outstanding leader, especially in humanitarian causes.

Opening lead — ten of clubs.
The trump echo is a method of play by which one defender tells the other that he started with three trumps. There are times when a defender has to know this to defeat a contract, and today's hand illustrates such a situation.

West leads a club, which East should assume is singleton. He takes the ace and returns the deuce, his lowest card, to tell West to return the lowest suit, diamonds.

West ruffs with the four and shifts to his fourth best diamond. Declarer takes East's queen with the ace and plays the king of trumps, West producing the deuce as East wins with the ace.

If there were no such animal as a trump echo, East might make the mistake of trying to cash the setting trick by leading the king of diamonds. It would be difficult for him to know that West held five diamonds and South the singleton ace.

But, thanks to the trump echo, East knows his partner has another trump and can ruff another club. He therefore leads a club and South goes down one.

There are positive and negative inferences associated with the trump echo. Thus, in the present case, East can tell from West's ruff with the four, followed by his later play of the two, that West has another trump. The high-low play in trumps designates three of them.

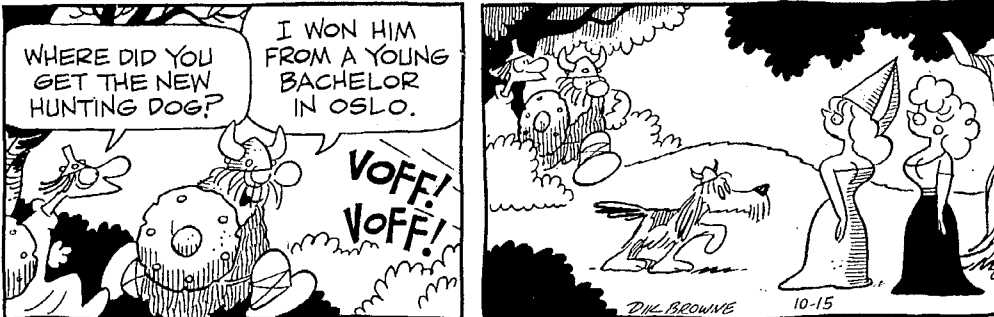

By the same token, if West had the doubleton 4-2, he would ruff the club at trick two with the two. When he later played the four, East would draw the negative inference that West had only two trumps, and he would therefore play the king of diamonds at trick five as his only hope of stopping the contract.

Grand Ole Opry's golden anniversary

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — The Grand Ole Opry has been the distant dreamcastle to which thousands of country music performers have aspired for 50 years — and Roy Acuff has been its king for much of that half century.

In an age of overnight obsolescence and fickle audiences, the Opry is a rarity. It is celebrating its Golden Anniversary this week with a nationally televised award show, banquets and a disc jockey convention that is expected to draw 10,000 visitors.

Acuff, singer, fiddler and yo-yo partner to presidents, and dozens of country music stars will be on hand to help toast the Opry's 50th year as the longest running radio program in world history.

Broadcast on a 50,000-watt clear-channel WSM station, the Opry reaches every state in the nation and Canada, entertaining a live audience and an estimated 10 million radio listeners every weekend.

The five-hour program of singing, picking, yodeling and cornpone humor has never missed a Saturday night in 50 years and Acuff says this is because of WSM's foresight.

"I think they saw the potential of a vast audience of people, especially rural people, that just love down-to-earth music," he said in his soft Tennessee drawl. "They saw it as a kind of family-type music."

"And nowadays, people have begun to realize that country music is not something just to laugh at or make light of, but something to enjoy and appreciate. Country music, if performed as I feel it should be performed, is beautiful, like the strains of a symphony."

The Opry has spawned country music legends like Acuff, Ernest Tubbs, Marty Robbins, Faron Young, Flatt and Scruggs, Hank Snow, Skeeter Davis, Minnie Pearl, George Jones and hundreds of others.

The show also served as the incubator for a regional music style that for years got a chilly reception from East and West Coast promoters.

Country music, now a $300 million dollar-a-year industry, has finally come into its own and through it all, the Opry remains serene and confident. It is the Mother Church of the country sound.

The Opry — now encased in a year-old $15 million brick and glass structure, where the burnt orange velvet stage curtain alone cost $150,000 — has survived raunchier settings.

Acuff remembers well the hulking red-brick tabernacle known as the Ryman Auditorium in downtown Nashville which housed the Opry from 1941 to 1974. Prior to '41, the Opry had several homes.

"Nobody was happier when we moved to the new building last year than I was," Acuff said. "I used to feel badly about inviting folks to come visit us and then feel like they were being punished for it."

The Ryman was saturated with history and tradition, but it was hot and uncomfortable.

Fans, to whom the Opry was a Saturday night family ritual for years, would stash dollars in the cookie jar for weeks to afford the trip. Tickets were, and still are, sold out for months in advance during the summer. Visitors were forced to stand in line for hours and were not guaranteed a seat.

Once inside, they perched on scarred wooden church pews and waged a losing battle against 100-degree heat with their paper funeral-parlor fans. The old Opry House held 3,600, but hard-core fans tolerated cramped quarters and near-suffocation to get a look at their favorite stars.

Now visitors, who travel an average of 450 miles, park their campers and cars in vast lots and sit in air-conditioned comfort on upholstered seats. About 750,000 made the trip to the Opry last year.

"It's still just a radio show that's grown in proportion in every way and is now drawing people from all over the world," Acuff said.

The Opry, which has expanded its Saturday night format to two shows plus one on Friday to accommodate the crowds, is still an unrehearsed show that is interrupted often for a word from Martha White self-rising flour, Goo Goo Candy Clusters and Beech Nut chewing tobacco.

Veteran Opry announcer Grant Turner still waves his arms after every song, signaling the audience to clap and yell louder. Performers still rustle the scripts shoved into their hands moments before singing the Kellogg's cornflakes jingle.

The Opry was more than 15 years old and already a legend when Acuff, a would-be baseball player from East Tennessee, joined. He had already had several song hits but that didn't carry any clout.

"You couldn't get on with a hit record. They meant nothing. You just had to wait and put your name in the pot. I finally got on as a replacement when Arthur Smith took a vacation. Five years it took me to get on. Five years and they wouldn't let me near the microphone."

Radio was in its heyday back in 1925 and producers were discovering the untapped audience of rural listeners who were hungry for their kind of music. Before radio, country music lovers had to be content with hearing their songs at traveling medicine shows, church meetings, tent revivals and front porch gatherings.

A Chicago radio show, WLS National Barn Dance, was already a proven success and the owners of WSM, the National Life and Accident Insurance Co., were eager to experiment with their month-old station.

George D. Hay, nicknamed the "Solemn Old Judge", was a former Memphis newspaperman hired as WSM's program manager. Hay loved country music and wanted to have a show that would attract the rural audience surrounding Nashville.

On Nov. 25, 1925, Hay sat a mountain fiddler named Uncle Jimmy Thompson in front of a carbon microphone and had him saw away for 65 minutes. That was the beginning of it.

The Opry was baptized a few weeks later when Hay, who came on following a program of grand opera, said, "For the past hour we have been listening to music largely from grand opera, but from now on we will present The Grand Ole Opry."

The show was an immediate hit and its listening audience grew steadily. Acuff said that audience hasn't changed much over the years, but has become a bit more diversified.

"The people who visit us are mostly white, middle class folks with families but we're getting more and more college students who come to hear the bluegrass."

Let Me Assure You by Alan Karpe

It's frightening to find a burglar in the house — you're often torn between protecting yourself and your property. Be wise. Protect yourself against intruders BEFORE they enter your home.

Don't admit strangers without proper identification. Check it before you open the door; you can depend on a chain or, better yet, a wide-angle peephole.

Make sure all accessible doors and windows have secure locks. And use them. Other windows can be protected with bars or grilles. Cut back shrubbery so it can't conceal a robbery attempt.

How are your locks? Vertical dead-bolt locks should replace spring-type latches. And protect your keys. Remove all but ignition key when you park at a lot or garage.

Personalize your property. Keep serial numbers of major purchases, such as TV or auto. Mark valuables with your Social Security number. Join Operation Identification.

Protect your home from unlawful intrusion. And, just in case, insure your belongings with adequate homeowners insurance.

The Opry has always been a free-wheeling spectacle that radio listeners can never fully appreciate until they see it. Friends and families of the performers are on stage, sitting on bleachers in front of the painted red barn door back drop or are walking around to chat in groups. Fans run up to the stage each time a favorite performer appears to snap a photo with their Instamatics or get an autograph.

The performers, then and now, have a verbal commitment to appear on at least 20 shows, for which they receive union scale, about $60 per show. Some could receive $1,500 and up on the road.

The superstars of the industry — Johnny Cash, June Carter Cash, Loretta Lynn and Tammy Wynette — are often guests on the Opry but are reluctant to commit themselves to an airtight schedule.

That schedule means a lot of traveling for Opry members, past and present, Acuff said.

"For 20 years I never slept in the same bed twice. If we had an engagement, me and the boys (the Smokey Mountain Boys) had a show in Florida or Texas, we had to drive back to Nashville by Saturday. There weren't any planes then and we went by car. I used to put 100,000 to 125,000 miles every year on my car."

Acuff, "The King of Country Music", still appears regularly on the Opry and sings old favorite like the "Wabash Cannonball" or "The Great Speckled Bird."

Despite the growth and the changes in the show, Acuff said there's no place else he'd rather be on Saturday night.

"I've had as much hayseed in my hair and cockleburs in my coattails as anybody and I'm not ashamed. I wouldn't want to work any place else than the Opry. It's not many folks who can get paid for doing what they most enjoy."

Acupuncture re-visited: Area residents still use it

By JEFF WIDMER
Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — A Tannersville woman lies face down on the black couch, waiting for the acupuncturist to poke a needle in the back of her neck to relieve the pain of arthritis in that area. He jabs the needle into the back of her toe, and she yelps with pain.

"It felt like a blunt nail," she said about her roughshod treatment by the chiropractor in the Pennsylvania-New Jersey area who also practices acupuncture. "He's a bungler and a quack."

The scene sharply contrasts with treatments she had received by an acupuncturist in New York City's Chinatown. There, she said, the acupuncturist inserts the needles gently, near the source of her pain, and relieves the suffering from two weeks to a month from the time of treatment.

An East Stroudsburg woman had a typical experience with acupuncture. Running from drug to drug in an effort to relieve the pain and swelling of arthritic hands and neck, she tried acupuncture to subdue her suffering.

It did not work, and now she has returned to drugs that cause side effects, some as serious as possible kidney damage.

But a retired East Stroudsburg plumber found four acupuncture treatments of his arthritic knees did the trick. The pain ebbed and remains controlled.

Acupuncture is one subject you don't hear much about these days. The fad has faded along with the optimistic chatter about delatante with China. The oriental healing art now seems indicted or exonerated on the non-scientific basis of testimony of people from whom it either did or did not work.

Two years ago, when poking needles into people was the rage, a surprisingly large number of Monroe County residents fled to acupuncture as the panacea for pain. Although they swore by the treatment then, about half dropped out of the league within a few months.

Dr. Carl Tauci, a Portland chiropractor and acupuncturist, said acupuncture is like many medications: It works for some but not for others.

Joan, an East Stroudsburg housewife with arthritis in her neck and hands, was one person who tried acupuncture with little success.

Joan — who, like others interviewed, asked that her name remain secret because she said her doctor did not approve of acupuncture — found some relief from the pain and swelling of arthritis after a few acupuncture treatments.

But within three months, she returned to traditional injections of salts of gold, and then to other drugs, like Motrin, to relieve the pain and swelling.

Tension inflames her condition, and she has been on tranquilizers since 1969. Joan tried acupuncture to stall what she now realizes could be the inevitable: an operation on her wrists to keep her fingers mobile.

George, a 69-year-old East Stroudsburg plumber, had just the opposite experience. After only four acupuncture treatments, the pain in his arthritic knees subsided. He never went back.

"That (acupuncture) is the best pain killer I ever had," he said. "I went into the doctor's office with a pair of crutches and I walked around the office without them. I can sleep nights."

George said acupuncture might have helped him if he had not have fallen from a ladder 40 feet one time and 30 feet the other time while he was working.

Before the falls, he boasted, "I could lick my weight in wildcats."

John, another East Stroudsburg man who tried acupuncture said 20 treatments relieved the pain in his legs. Where he was taking up to 14 aspirin tablets a day to reduce the pain, he now takes only eight a day.

Not only does success of acupuncture depend on how the individual's body reacts, but how well the treatment is administered, according to the Tannersville woman who prefers the real thing in Chinatown.

Before her first trip to the New York acupuncturist, she said, "I was in such agony. After I came out, I felt so good I called a friend in New York and went to a party."

Pike developer to hear lot owners' complaints

DINGMANS FERRY — An attorney for Pike County developer J.J. Fiume believes an out-of-town court settlement can be reached soon over complaints by the Pocono Mountain Lake Forest Community Assn.

John Klemeyer, an attorney with the Milford law firm of Finan, Beecher, Wagner and Rose, said Tuesday that he did not believe the residents of the Delaware Township development or his client Fiume were "that far apart on the issues."

Residents had submitted a list of complaints to Klemeyer, alleging that Fiume failed to complete a water system, maintain roads, and build tennis courts and two swimming pools in the 950-acre development.

In an effort to avoid a court battle, an October 20 meeting among the concerned parties is scheduled.

"Our opinion is that the development is in pretty good shape, but we don't want them (residents) to feel the developer is not ready to sit down and talk," Klemeyer said.

In response to residents' complaints Klemeyer said that all the roads in the development have been completed and noted that the water system would be installed as soon as two wells can be drilled and registration papers can be filed with the state Public Utility Commission.

Although he did not know the exact amount of money spent to improve roads, Klemeyer maintained that the developer had "spent a lot of money recently to keep them in good condition."

Residents complained about potholes on the main road and the removal of surface gravel on other development roads.

Klemeyer also responded to criticism about the "poor condition" of the development's club house by noting that Fiume is presently involved in a suit with the clubhouse contractor over the construction of the building.

The developer's attorney said a swimming pool at the development was in good working order, but admitted that the beach area still had to be completed.

Fiume, who owns several developments in Delaware and Lehman Townships, Pike County, is also the defendant in a $21 million class action suit by 2,100 property owners in Pocono Mountain Lake Estates.

Residents there charge that Fiume failed to meet sales promises concerning widening and resurfacing roads, installation of pools and construction of beaches, lakes and tennis courts.

Klemeyer said that attempts are currently being made to reach a settlement with the Pocono Mountain Lake Estates Community Assn.

"It will take a minimum of two weeks before any agreement is completed, and perhaps a bit longer," Klemeyer said.

Attorney George Fritz of Stroudsburg, representing the community association, confirmed the negotiations but said he could not comment further.

Senators reconsider McHale

OTTAWA NEWS SERVICE
Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — State Sens. Frederick H. Hobbs and T. Newell Wood reported Tuesday they may switch their stands on James H. McHale, Gov. Shapp's controversial Secretary of Agriculture.

Earlier this session, the Senate rejected McHale's nomination 25-24, with Hobbs voting for confirmation and Wood voting against.

Tuesday, the Governor again submitted McHale's nomination to the Senate. In telephone interviews Tuesday afternoon, Wood indicated that he may reverse his earlier vote and support McHale's nomination this time. "I think he's been a good secretary. The farmers up our way approve of him," Wood said.

Hobbs, who voted for McHale in July, disclosed that he "caught a little hell" from farmers for his July vote. Will McHale receive Hobbs' support this time? "I don't know what I'm going to do this time," Hobbs said. "The farmers seem split on him."

Hobbs, a Schuylkill County Republican, added that McHale seems to be "generating more support this time."

Wood, a Luzerne County Republican, said he voted against McHale's nomination in July knowing in advance that McHale's nomination was being rejected. Wood's name occurs late in Senate roll calls, and by the time Wood voted against McHale, he knew the vote would "not mean anything."

Anita Breitwieser
EAST STROUDSBURG — Mrs. Anita Breitwieser, 81, of East Stroudsburg, died Monday in the General Hospital of Monroe County. She was the widow of the late Dr. Thomas J. Breitwieser.

Born in East Stroudsburg, she was the daughter of the late Warren Edgar and Olive (Barry) VanVliet.

She was a graduate of the East Stroudsburg Normal School class of 1911 and received her bachelor of arts and master of sciences degrees from Columbia University.

A long time member of the East Stroudsburg United Presbyterian Church, she was also a member of the Jacob Stroud Chapter of the DAR. She was chairman of the chairmanship committee for many years and did much genealogical research for new members.

She also belonged to the Historical Farm Association, the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults and the Historical Society of Monroe County.

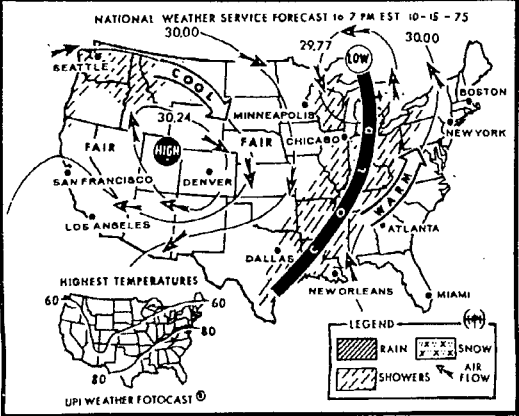

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Roger Dunning, of Stroudsburg, and a grandson, Richard R. Dunning, of Stroudsburg.

Funeral services will be held on Thursday at 1:30 p.m. in the Lanterman Funeral Home, 27 Washington St., East Stroudsburg, with the Rev. Samuel Hufford officiating.

Burial will be in the Prospect Cemetery in East Stroudsburg.

Friends and relatives may pay respects at Lanterman's on Thursday from 1 p.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Memorial donations may be made to the General Hospital of Monroe County or to the United Presbyterian Church of East Stroudsburg.

State audit may cut subsidies to Manor

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County may not get as much federal reimbursement for Pleasant Valley Manor for 1974 as it had expected, according to an audit released by the state Auditor General.

According to the audit, the county is paid 55 per cent of the operating costs incurred at the nursing home.

County figures show operating expenses for 1974 were $873,597 but the state says only $733,181 were allowable costs, a difference of over $140,000.

Much of the difference is because the state disallowed about 2,000 patient days amounting to $57,489.

A similar situation occurred last year when the state chipped the county's operation expense figures by $168,207. The county appealed and was granted reimbursement for all but one patient.

Mrs. Nancy B. Shukaitis, county commissioner chairman said the county will appeal the recent audit in an attempt to recover the money.

S. Gilmore Stone, certified public accountant of Crane and Gordon Inc. which handles the manor's reimbursement, said the state disallowed the patient days because they were not certified.

Stone said the patients were certified in August 1973 but that the state Department of Public Welfare was not notified until April 1974.

Stone said it was the same certification dispute which caused the problem with the reimbursement last year.

The audit stated that the county's figure was further reduced because of services provided outside the county home, errors in employee health and welfare costs and because county support services were not sufficiently documented.

Stone said the county was notified to record time spent by its employees on manor business but the notification came too late to get reimbursement for 1974.

Sheriff sale nets state $14,000

HARRISBURG — The state Justice Department has received $14,000 in delinquent taxes from a Monroe County Sheriff's sale of Pocono Lakeshore, Inc., East Stroudsburg, Attorney General Robert P. Kane announced.

"This sale is significant because it marks the first time that real estate has been sold to pay delinquent corporate taxes," said Deputy Attorney General Wayne L. Deitrich, acting chief of the collections division of the justice department.

Pocono Lakeshore, located on a 52-acre plot in Middle Smithfield Township, East Stroudsburg, R.D. 2, was sold in a Monroe County Sheriff's sale "upon the execution of a lien for unpaid corporate taxes."

The corporation listed its president, the late Edward L. Parker of Miami, Fla.

Father charged with four deaths on trial in Monroe

By FLIP DeLUCA
Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — The trial of Robert Young Sr. who is charged with four counts of involuntary manslaughter in connection with a July 4 traffic accident will go to the jury today.

Testimony concluded Tuesday with the defendant taking the stand in his own behalf and denying that he was traveling at an excessive rate of speed as previous witnesses had testified.

Young is on trial for the deaths of his children, Robert Jr. 12, and Anne Marie, 10; and Charlotte Deats, 11, of East Stroudsburg and Dorothea McKeegan, 7, of Beaver Brook.

Bruce McKeegan, 13, who was a passenger in the cab of the 1958 pick up truck when it overturned on I-80, sobbingly testified that he fell asleep in the truck. When he woke up just prior to the accident, he said he saw Young's head on the steering wheel.

The truck skidded sideways and Young woke up and said, "Oh my God," the youth testified.

He said that he looked at the truck's speedometer prior to the accident and that it registered between 80 and 85 miles per hour.

Anthony McKeegan, Bruce's father who was riding in the back of the pick up truck, testified that at one point he told Young, "For God's sake, slow down." McKeegan said Young agreed but then accelerated again.

McKeegan said he put the six children who were in the rear of the truck under a tent and other camping equipment for protection in case of an accident. The children were yelling for Young to slow down, McKeegan testified.

He described the day's events leading up to the 11 p.m. accident which included sporadic drinking of beer with Young and a neighbor.

A technician from the state police Crime Laboratory at Wyoming, Peter Petruska, testified that a blood sample from Young showed the alcoholic content to be .15. A reading of .10 is used by the state to indicate intoxication.

Tpr. Michael Kish testified there were about 260 feet of skid marks leading up to the point the truck stopped.

Daniel G. Warner, county coroner, testified that all but Robert Young Jr. died as a result of injuries sustained in the accident. The Young youth died in the hospital a month later and Associate Pathologist Dr. William Jeffrey testified that his death was from injuries in the accident.

The defendant denied that he was drunk or even under the influence of alcohol. He said he drove from the right lane to the left lane of the highway when a car and a motorcycle entered from a ramp leading onto I-80 from Rte. 33.

Young said the back of the pick up truck slid around, making the truck go sideways in the road and then it struck the guard rail.

He said he was going 50 or 55 m.p.h. and that he didn't hear anyone tell him to slow down. He said the truck wasn't capable of traveling over 65 m.p.h.

Young testified that Bruce McKeegan "must have been seeing things" when he saw the speedometer register 80 m.p.h.

The jury is to begin deliberation in the case this morning following final arguments by defense attorney John Lawler and Dist. Atty. James F. Marsh, and the charge of the jury by President Judge Arlington W. Williams.

In other court matters Tuesday, a jury found Claude Van Nostrand of Stroudsburg guilty of driving under the influence. He was charged following an accident on Rte. 209 in Smithfield Township June 28. Van Nostrand was given seven days to appeal.

Richard Foley of Cresco pleaded guilty to driving under the influence. A charge of duty to stop in event of an accident will not be prosecuted. A presentence investigation was ordered.

Vincent Majewski of Blakeslee pleaded guilty to theft, a third degree misdemeanor, in connection with an incident June 27 in Pocono Lake. A presentence investigation was ordered.

Larry LaBadie of Anchorage, Alaska pleaded guilty to a violation of the controlled substance act. A presentence investigation was ordered.

Gary Hill of Saylorburg and High McKeever of Mount Pocono were placed on six months probation each after being admitted to an accelerated rehabilitation program. Both had been charged with drug law violations.

Work-study gives pupils incentive

By JEFF WIDMER
Pocono Record Reporter

EAST STROUDSBURG —

Wes Smith wants to be a mechanic. He has worked on enough cars with his brother to know what he wants. He does not want to be in school, and he does not want to study at the county vo-tech school when he enters tenth grade next year.

What does a school official do with Wes? Let him flunk or drop out of the traditional school?

Counselors in the East Stroudsburg School District got Wes a job, and the fourteen-year-old couldn't be happier. He still feels he can learn more on the job than in school, but his boss, Roger Hartmann of Ray Hartmann and Sons near East Stroudsburg, is convincing Wes he should stay in school and learn to read and write.

Wes's work-study counselor, Stephen Davis, said Hartmann has gotten through to Wes where others failed, one of the strong points of the Alternative School.

Last year, the school was located in the old lab school at East Stroudsburg State College. East Stroudsburg district students who were discipline problems were shipped over there as an alternative to suspending them.

New face

The school has put on a new face, moved into new quarters at Mountain Lake House in Marshalls Creek, according to project director Mrs. Joan Patterson. No longer are students punished by exile to the Alternative School; they are not coerced to attend, she said.

The program's main thrust now is to help kids who cannot cope with traditional high school, who are penalized for shortcomings in reading and other subjects, but who excel in areas not tapped in regular school.

While East Stroudsburg High School classes can average 25 students per class, the Alternative School provides one teacher-counselor for every seven students. Instruction is individualized and teachers give students the meat of the vital subjects.

But Wes, other students at the school, and Mrs. Patterson feel the most important aspect of the Alternative School is the on-the-job experience 15 students get every afternoon. Students work in A.B. Wyckoff, the General Hospital of Monroe County, the Salvation Army and a dozen other jobs in the community, both in the public and the private sectors.

They learn what work they like and don't like, and find out what skills are necessary to do the jobs.

During the mornings, the students run their own toy factory, turning out wooden cars, rabbits and other items they hope to peddle during the Christmas holiday. Students teach other students how to run the machines. They cook their own breakfasts, sew with professional machines and do their own printing.

Tough to adjust

Like Wes, Eileen McCarthy, 14, could not adjust to high school. "I didn't like the teachers, the classes, the bells, the three minutes you have to run from class to your locker, the passes you need, because if you don't have a pass, you get in trouble. I like the Alternative School because you don't have to be in the same place for eight hours."

Eileen works for the Salvation Army in East Stroudsburg every afternoon, calling elderly people and inviting them to the Salvation Army's lunch and arts and crafts program. She will also visit the elderly with another worker to entice the people to come in for a meal.

Last year, Eileen worked with small children as a part of the Alternative School program. She discovered she did not like it as much as working with the elderly. Her experience also changed her goals; now she wants to study cosmetology.

Placing students in busi-

nesses, reports and in other jobs is what Mrs. Patterson calls "reality training." Students are paid for their work as an added incentive to achieve.

Davis said the employer is taking a slight risk by hiring the Alternative School students, but quickly added employers can gain a long-term employee at low cost by taking on one of his students. Public jobs are available, Davis said, but more jobs in private industry are needed. He urged employers to call the school at 424-8902 if they can help.

Students usually get the job they ask for, and surprisingly, two asked to be placed as dishwashers. Others do seasonal work for department stores and resorts, or work as switchboard operators.

Their in-class training is informal. Students sit on top of study carrels while a teacher reads to them. Others read Ann Landers, or the police blotter in the local paper, looking for friends who might have gotten in trouble.

Some of the Alternative School students themselves have been in trouble with the law and are on probation. One girl came to school drugged and giggling and was counseled when she became disruptive.

Mrs. Patterson said she keeps in touch with the local social agencies, such as the probation officers, children's bureau, mental health and drug and alcohol offices. Students with problems are tested by psychologists from the nearby intermediate unit and referred to the appropriate social agency.

In class, perfect attendance earns students points or tokens. Students use the tokens to buy free passes to East Stroudsburg athletic events and other items, reinforcing their good behavior.

So far, students in the $55,000 federally-funded program are succeeding, because they are being offered an alternative to the school they cannot adjust to, said Mrs. Patterson.

"They will not be a success on the job," she said, "if they are not a success as a human being."

19 naturalized in Monroe court

STROUDSBURG — The largest number of area residents in at least 12 years were naturalized as American citizens during ceremonies Tuesday in the Monroe County Courthouse.

Judge James R. Marsh told the 19 persons who were naturalized and about 60 spectators they were doing a great thing for their children, grandchildren and all their descendants.

Howard Popkin of the Stroudsburg Chapter of B'nai

B'rith welcomed the new citizens to the United States which he termed a great country.

Those persons becoming naturalized citizens and their home countries were: Lubomir Velicky, Bushkill, from Czechoslovakia; Ismet Kalar, Scotrun, Bulgaria; Jean Chin-Mei Lee, Stroudsburg, from China; Jose Engroba, Marshalls Creek, from Cuba; Kryoki Costenbader, Saylorburg, from Japan; Sotere Spiros Ladeas, Stroudsburg, from Greece; and Apostolos E. Mastrokyriakos, Stroudsburg, from Greece.

Also: Hui-Tzu Lai Cheng, Stroudsburg, from China; Maria Iona Padgett, Millrift, from Germany; Margaret Suzy Wong, Stroudsburg, from Jamaica, W.I.; Ellen Harrington, Milford, from Ireland; Kate Wen Lee, Stroudsburg, from China; and Marion Fish, East Stroudsburg, from Great Britain.

Others naturalized were: Georgios Antonios Stavrianoudakis, Stroudsburg, from Greece; John Skouvakis, Stroudsburg, from Greece; Malamatenis Efthimios Mastrokyriakos, Stroudsburg, from Greece; Karen Ying Lee of Stroudsburg, from China; Balakrishna Raghavendra Rao, East Stroudsburg, from India; and Rita Schanzenbacher, Milford, from West Germany.

Teachers to tune in on students

SWIFTWATER — Pocono Mountain school teachers and administrators will head back to school this year to learn what their impact on students really is.

Toby center sets open house

POCONO PINES — The Tobyhanna Elementary Center PTA will hold its first of the year meeting along with Open House at 8 p.m. today at the elementary center, Pocono Pines.

After a brief business meeting parents will visit classrooms and meet teachers.

During the four-day workshop, teachers will take on the role of students and study how to become more aware of students and their feelings.

The in-service program starts Friday, Oct. 17, when consultants from the Institute for Personal Effectiveness in Harleysville discuss how to meet students' needs and build their self-confidence.

Workshops will continue throughout the school year. During the second, on Nov. 10, teachers will discuss human relations and take on the part normally played by students.

A half-day session on trans-actional analysis will follow on Dec. 8, with emphasis on developing a positive attitude in students.

"The Problem of Failure in the Classroom" will be discussed Jan. 6 in another half-day session.

For the fourth half-day session on Feb. 2, teachers will discuss strategies to help students look at their values and become aware of their ideas and beliefs.

The final full-day workshop will be held March 8. Among the topics are: What teachers can do when students have problems, what teachers can do when students give them problems, and how to modify the environment to prevent problems.

School tax deducted from pay

STROUDSBURG — All employees in the Stroudsburg Area School District must deduct the $10 per person occupational privilege tax, according to H.A. Berkheimer, Inc. of Stroudsburg, municipal tax collector.

But employees earning less than $100 annually may file a claim for a refund of the tax.

Every employer within the district must deduct the $10 right to work tax collected by the school district. The deduction is taken from the first pay of each employee in the first quarter of each calendar year.

Clergy to advise drug unit

STROUDSBURG — The Tri-County Drug and Alcohol Council (D&A) is looking for reaction from Monroe County clergy to the clinic's programs.

D&A specialist Mike Nestor told the board Monday night that all clergy in Monroe have been invited to attend a meeting at 2 p.m. on Nov. 12 at the Mental Health Mental Retardation (MHMR) conference room.

The purpose of the conference is to gather their reactions to existing programs and suggestions for other services.

Nestor said in the past the council hasn't received public input when the year's plan is presented at a public meeting so sessions are being held now to get input before the next plan is written.

MHMR administrator Thomas Foley added that reactions to MHMR programs are also being requested at the conference.

Meetings with clergy in Pike and Carbon Counties and with other community groups will be scheduled later, Nestor said.

Park board passes budget up $5,437 from last year

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Recreation and Park Commission's proposed 1976 budget is only a $5,437 increase over last year's budget.

To achieve this, the commission intends to eliminate appropriating $50,000 directly to municipalities as it did this year and instead spend the money itself.

The $50,000 will be used for direct program services to municipalities, including evening recreation programs at two more school districts than last year and summertime recreation programs in Pocono Mountain schools.

The funds will also be expended in new senior citizen programs.

The Recreation and Park Commission board Tuesday approved the $111,192.25 budget without dissent. Anticipated income from fees for various programs was listed as $13,925.

A delegation of Recreation and Park Commission board members will request $97,267.25 be allocated to them.

Executive director Jeffrey Evans pointed out the proposed budget would provide "just shy of $2 per person for each permanent resident of Monroe County — using the 1970 census."

Carbon County's recreation budget, in contrast, comes to $4 per resident, he said.

The budget was broken down into four basic areas: First Ward Park and West End Park, Programs, Appropriations and Administration.

Total budgeted for both county parks was $29,920, for programs, $43,043, appropriations, 0, administration, $38,229.25.

The county parks budget includes salaries, maintenance, swimming pool maintenance, utilities and telephone, expansion and improvements and security.

The programs' budget includes winter community recreation programs at three of the four school districts in the county (all but Stroudsburg Area School District), summer employees for recreation programs at the schools, and senior citizen programs.

Also included under programs is sports equipment, camping equipment, arts and crafts supplies, movies, uniforms and transportation.

Evans explained it is difficult to compare these figures to those in last year's budget since most of the programs are new.

Under the administration category of the budget, the biggest increase is the executive director's salary. The commission voted a $2,500 increase, from $9,500 to $12,000 per year.

Board members explained they felt Evans deserved the salary increase because he usually works 45 to 50 hours per week, his educational background and training and the quality of his work.

Other items under administration include office supplies, mileage and vehicle operation, conferences, public relations and advertising, utilities and telephone, expansion and improvements, security, members and publications.

Police blotter

Truck plunges down embankment

MINISINK HILLS — Swerving his truck to avoid ramming into a car that pulled out in front of him, a Uniontown man suffered minor injuries when his truck plunged down an embankment on Rte. 209 early Tuesday morning.

Ralph Vall, 51, was treated for lacerations at the General Hospital of Monroe County and then released, according to a state police at Swiftwater spokesman.

Vall told police he was headed north on Rte. 209 when a car pulled out in front of him from Shawnee Road in Minisink Hills. He swerved the truck loaded with swinging beef in order to miss the car. The truck went through guard rails and down the embankment.

The car Vall swerved to avoid sped away without stopping, police said. Crews removed the truck from the bottom of the embankment during the day Tuesday.

Women identified

TANNERSVILLE — Three East Stroudsburg sisters and an East Stroudsburg R.D. 5 woman face theft charges, District Magistrate Gerald Canfield said Tuesday.

The women, Debbie, 18, Diane, 20 and Donna, 21, Kishbaugh, all of 59 Prospect Street, were arraigned early Sunday and charged with theft. The fourth woman, Kathy Smith faces the same charges.

Pocono Township Ptl. Chester Staples caught the women and three men as they were allegedly trying to empty a soda machine at the market late Saturday night.

The men, Rick Bruck, 18 of East Stroudsburg R.D. 1, Paul Kern of East Stroudsburg and Dale Siegfried of Stroudsburg R.D. are lodged in the Monroe County Jail. The women are free on their own recognizance.

More murder arrests

LEHIGHTON — Two more men were arrested Monday in connection with the September 30 slaying of a Towamensing Township, Carbon County man.

William S. Janotka, of Allentown and Buddy D. Rau of Bethlehem were arrested Monday and arraigned before a Jim Thorpe magistrate.

Two other persons, Andrew Minnich and Bertha Mae Ruch, both of Wescosville, were arrested on October 6 and charged with the murder of Lewis A. Anthony, 56, of Palmerton R.D. 2.

Police refused to detail charges against the four persons or to disclose any connection between them. Janotka is lodged in the Luzerne County Prison, Wilkes-Barre, Dean in the Northampton County Prison, Easton. Bail amounts were not disclosed.

Burglary charged

KUNKLETOWN — A 19 year-old Kunkletown R.D. 1 man has been charged with burglary in connection with a break in of a Polk Township service station Monday.

David A. Grewsman was arrested by state police at Lehigh and arraigned before District Magistrate Gerald Canfield. He is free on his own recognizance.

Driving under suspension charged

BARTONSVILLE — A Mount Pocono man has been charged with driving while his license is under suspension. The arrest, Tuesday, stemming from an August 19 incident, is the second charge filed against Leo J. Moore Jr., 23.

According to District Magistrate Gerald Canfield of Tannersville, Moore also faces driving under suspension charges from a June 15 incident near Mount Pocono. The second incident occurred near Bartonsville.

Moore is free on $400 bail.

Drug store robbed

BANGOR — State police are searching for four men suspected of the gunpoint theft of nearly $300 worth of prescription drugs from a Washington Township drug store Monday afternoon.

State police at Easton said three white males walked into Joseph's Pharmacy about 4:30 p.m. Monday and ordered a clerk to lie on the floor. Then they wrestled keys to a drug cabinet from the pharmacist after grabbing her around the neck and then made off with the drugs.

The fourth man, police said, was driving the red and white late model car the group drove away in.

Neither the clerk nor pharmacist was injured, according to police. One of the men pointed a pistol at the woman.

After the robbery was reported, state police from Easton and Swiftwater set up roadblocks throughout the Slate Belt into Monroe County. Local police in both counties assisted.

Area fire calls

SHAWNEE — Sixteen Shawnee firemen spent about four hours Tuesday night burning down a house.

Firemen, at the request of the property's owners, burned down a frame house at the Sun Mountain Camp on Hollow Road.

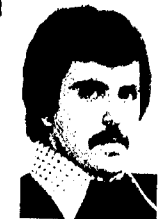

A fire department spokesman said the fire was started at the top of the house, "so the building would fall in." The frame house was two stories high.

TOBYHANNA — Fire destroyed a car in the Pocono Farms development Tuesday afternoon. Coolbaugh Township Fire Chief Harry Smith said the car, owned by Chris Brady, an employee of the Tobyhanna Army Depot, was completely engulfed in flames when firemen arrived.

TAMIMENT — Bushkill firemen quickly doused a mattress fire in an employee's cabin at Tamiment, Resort and Country Club Tuesday afternoon.

According to Assistant Fire Chief Al Clewell, several mattresses were smoldering when firemen arrived.

Lisicky
new goalie

Good athletes always take advantage of breaks. Denise Lisicky, a former Stroudsburg High School star now at the University of Pennsylvania, took advantage of such a break recently.

Making her collegiate field hockey debut as a goalie, Denise went into the nets in a recent match against Glassboro as a second half starter in place of Penn's regular goalie. She's been in there ever since.

"She's a natural athlete," said assistant Penn coach Julie Staver. "All she needs is game time. She'll get better and better with every game she plays."

She'll be getting that game time, too. While she had played field hockey at Stroudsburg, she hadn't played at Penn until that Glassboro game Sept. 30. Since, she's played well against both Eastern University and Temple, plus a key match against Princeton last week.

Denise Lisicky

Denise is a sophomore at Penn, majoring in physical therapy and maintaining a 3.7 average. She also played varsity basketball and softball last year as a freshman.

Wilhelm replacement named

Frank Satalin, assistant basketball coach at LeMoyne College in Syracuse the past five seasons, has been named head basketball coach at Lebanon Valley College to replace Pete Wilhelm, well-known in this area for his work in many sports.

Wilhelm, 29, died Sept. 22 and a current fund drive is being conducted to donate a universal gym facility to the Monroe County YMCA in his memory. Might not be a bad idea to help out.

Satalin's older brother Jim is head coach at St. Bonaventure.

Lutz helps 15-8 victory

Pocono Mountain's Rich Lutz helped Millersville knock off West Chester, 15-6, recently in a freshman football game when he retrieved a blocked punt and ran 30 yards for a touchdown.

Lutz, a 1974 graduate at Pocono Mountain, was a star linebacker last season for the Cardinals as they earned a 7-4 record and also was a slugging outfielder on the Cardinals' baseball squad.

Arner back at William Penn

Pleasant Valley High School graduate Kurt Arner, who starred as a quarterback and placekicker for the Bears for three seasons, is back at William Penn College in Oskaloosa, Iowa, after a one-year's absence.

Arner originally went to William Penn after graduating from Pleasant Valley in 1973, but transferred back to this area last year to East Stroudsburg State College. Now he's returned back to William Penn.

The Statemen are currently 5-0 and have earned high ranking on the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) Division II football polls. They have played in post-season bowl games two of the past three seasons.

Purulator 500 Aug. 1

Don't fret, stock car fans, the Purulator 500 NASCAR stock race, featuring all the Good Old Boys, will be back at Pocono International Raceway next Aug. 1.

This year's race was won by David Pearson over Richard Petty in a controversial finish when Pearson completed the race while his car was smoking badly.

The stock car race, which is actually more entertaining than the Schaefer 500 but doesn't draw half as many fans, coupled with that Schaefer 500 and the Formula 5000 race planned for May gives Pocono International Raceway at least three big events for next year, plus the modified championship.

'Coaches Night' Nov. 10

The Lehigh Valley Chapter of the National Football Foundation has begun selling tickets for its revived "Coaches Night" to be held Monday, Nov. 10, at 7 p.m. at the Blue Valley Farm Show building on the Bangor-Pen Argyl highway.

The dinner affair, open to women, will feature the 33 scholastic and six collegiate coaches in the area answering questions put to them by a quizmaster.

Tickets for interested area fans may be obtained from Rev. James Prior at Pius X High School, Vincent Caiazzo and Everett's Deli in the Roseto-Bangor area. In Wind Gap the contact is Joe DeAlba and in Pen Argyl, Nicholas Guerrero.

And whatever became of Tom Satriano?

Warriors unbeaten in volleyball

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg State College remained undefeated in volleyball by beating the University of Delaware and Ithaca College in a pair of dual matches Tuesday.

The Warriors edged Delaware, 17-15, 15-12, and then took a three-setter over Ithaca, 16-14, 14-16, and 15-8. The team's record is now 7-0.

Against Delaware, the ESSC team came from behind, 10-3, in the first game, and 10-9, in the second. Three winning serves by Barb Grady and Bangor harriers hand Salisbury first loss.

ALLENTOWN — Eric Reimer took another first and Brad Krum out-raced Salisbury's Roy Brunell and Doug Hensinger in the final 50 yards Tuesday as Bangor handed Salisbury its first Colonial League cross country defeat of the season with a 28-29 victory.

The Slaters also beat Southern Lehigh, 18-37.

Krum trailed both Brunell and Hensinger with 50 yards to go but put on a final sprint which caught both Falcons and then beat them to the finish for second place. Brunell was third and Hensinger fourth. Reimer won in a time of 17:50 on the 2.84-mile course.

The Slaters also won over Southern Lehigh, with Reimer first and Krum second as the Slaters swept the first four positions. Bob Buzzard was third and Denny Horn fourth for the Slaters.

Bangor is now 11-3 overall and 10-3 in Colonial League meets.

Palisades buries Stroudsburg, 7-2

Lovecchio's 4 goals lead Spartans

EAST STROUDSBURG — Scoring is becoming a habit with Notre Dame's Marc Lovecchio and he kept at it Tuesday, scoring all four goals as the Spartans remained undefeated in Wayne County League second half play with a 4-0 blanking of Pocono Central Catholic.

Lovecchio, who now totals 19 goals in nine league games this season and who now has all 10 goals the Spartans have scored in the second half of the season, got one score in the third period and three in the fourth after the teams had battled through the first half without a score.

After Notre Dame had lost a first half goal on an offside call, Lovecchio opened his scoring with 17:10 gone in the third period on an unassisted goal he scored on a breakaway at Kingsmen freshman goalie Victor Genco. Lovecchio added his second score 35 seconds into the fourth quarter, scoring from point-blank range.

The third goal came after 4:40 of the final period and the fourth goal after 12:20, both coming from about 18 yards away and both being unassisted.

The loss dropped the Kingsmen to a 1-2 second half record.

Pirates, 7-2

FERNDALE — Palisades' two Taber brothers were too much for Stroudsburg to handle Tuesday.

Dan and Dave Taber scored three goals apiece as the unbeaten Pirates routed the Mounties, 7-2 in a Colonial League soccer game.

Palisades spotted Stroudsburg an early 1-0 lead when Tim Freeman took a pass from Scott Schreck and Bob "Beeper" Gargone and scored from six yards out.

But within 1:16 after Freeman's goal, Dave Taber scored his first two goals of the afternoon on assists from Nick Vitale and Dan Taber to give the Pirates the lead for keeps.

Sam Hutchinson accounted for the Pirates' other goal on a breakaway in the third period Bob Ludwig scored the Mounties' other goal off a direct kick at the 11:33 mark of the third period.

Individuals among leaders; defense is best

Warriors fare well in statistics

EAST STROUDSBURG — Fullback Herb Mills of West Chester is the new rushing leader in the Pennsylvania Conference Eastern Division.

Mills ran for 144 yards in 34 carries in the Golden Rams' 28-7 victory over Bloomsburg last Saturday. The 6-0, 205-pound senior now has 377 yards in four games for an average of 94.3 yards per game.

Mike Kemp of Mansfield, leader for the last two weeks, dropped to second place as he was held to five yards in the Mounties' 42-13 loss to Millersville. He is now averaging 81.5 yards per game.

There are new leaders in two other statistical categories, receiving and scoring.

End Dave Buttaro of Kutztown seized the receiving lead by catching seven passes for 140 yards as the Bears tied Glassboro State, 3-3. Buttaro now has 15 receptions in four games for an average of 3.8 per game. He has a slim lead over end Tom Palubinski of East Stroudsburg, 11 catches in three games for 3.7 per game.

Palubinski is tops in scoring as he tallied his fourth touchdown of three games, an average of 8.0 points per game, in the Warriors' 17-7 win over Cheyney.

Carmen Lex of Millersville remains the division's top passer with 10.8 completions per game and total offense leader with an average of 218 yards. He passed for 221 yards on 13 completions in the win over Mansfield.

East Stroudsburg's Pete Radocha is third in rushing behind Mills and Kemp, averaging 76.2 yards per game, but has the highest rushing total with 381 yards, four above Mills' total. Quarterback Mike Terwilliger is third behind Lex and Kutztown's Dan LaMountain in passing, averaging 8.4 completions per game while completing 42 of 79 attempts for 629 yards and seven touchdowns.

Terwilliger is second in total offense with 672 yards, adding 43 rushing yards to his passing totals. Radocha is third in scoring with 29 points, or 5.8 per game, and punter Bobby Boyd, a former Pocono Mountain High School star, is third in punting behind West Chester's Don Wolf and Mansfield's Fran Tagalang. Boyd is averaging 38 yards on 25 punts.

Teamwise, the Warriors are fifth in rushing offense, averaging 145.2 yards per game, and second in passing offense, averaging 136.4 yards a contest. Mansfield, which meets the Warriors Saturday, leads in rushing with an average of 195.5 yards.

Millersville, the opponent Oct. 25 at East Stroudsburg, leads in passing with an average of 183.8. In total offense, the Warriors are second with an average of 281.6, trailing leader Millersville.

Defensively, the Warriors are fourth against the run and first against the pass, giving them the top overall defensive rating with an average of 220.6 yards allowed per game. Cheyney is the rushing leader, allowing just 107.6 yards a game, and the Warriors give up an average of just 71.8 yards passing a game.

Warriors sixth in 'Lambert'

Special to The Record
NEW YORK — East Stroudsburg State College has moved into sixth position in the weekly voting for the Lambert Cup.

The Warriors, now 5-0 after a 17-7 victory Saturday at Cheyney, total 31 points and have now advanced from ninth two weeks ago to seventh last week to sixth this time around.

Massachusetts, 4-0, is the Cup leader with a total of 69 points, five ahead of runner-up Delaware, which is 4-1. Lehigh, also 4-1, is third with 57 points, New Hampshire (4-1) fourth with 46 points and American International, also with a 4-0 mark, fifth with 40 points.

East Stroudsburg meets Mansfield Saturday, while leader Massachusetts hosts Rhode Island, coached by former East Stroudsburg coach Jack Gregory. Delaware entertains Lehigh, while Central Connecticut travels to New Hampshire and fifth-ranked American International has an open date.

Another nearby team, Lafayette, is seventh with 25 points.

Team Points
1. Massachusetts (4-0) 69
2. Delaware (4-1) 64
3. Lehigh (4-1) 57
4. New Hampshire (4-1) 54
5. American International (4-0) 40
6. East Stroudsburg (5-0) 31
7. Lafayette (3-1) 25
8. Indiana State (4-1) 19
9. Clarion (3-1) 15
10. Edinboro (4-2) 9

ESSC tickets on sale

EAST STROUDSBURG — Tickets are now available for East Stroudsburg State College's Homecoming football game against Mansfield Saturday at 1:30 p.m. on the College Field.

The tickets may be purchased daily at the Koehler Fieldhouse on the ESSC campus and at Lim's Quality Sports Shop, Stroudsburg.

ESSC Coach Denny Douds will present his weekly Wednesday with the Warriors program today at noon in Stroud Hall, room 117 at ESSC. He will show movies of the 17-7 win over Cheyney and will preview the Mansfield game.

Varsity 'S' to meet tonight

STROUDSBURG — The Stroudsburg Varsity "S" Association will hold its regular monthly meeting at 8 p.m. tonight at the Elks Lodge in East Stroudsburg.

An important discussion will be held on the group's proposed undertaking of the Middle School basketball program.

Reports will be made concerning the Middle School football program and the upcoming elementary basketball program. Anyone interested in coaching in these programs should attend the meeting.

East Stroudsburg State College football coach Dennis Douds will discuss the football program at ESSC and show films of recent games.

A buffet will be served following the meeting.

Re: Putting fun in my housework.

Lester Coleman, M.D.

Easing jet lag problem

After a flight from Europe it takes me almost 10 days before my sleep and eating habits are adjusted. During this time I can barely function in my job. Is there any way that this can be prevented?

Mr. H.C., N.Y., N.Y.

Dear Mr. C.:
One of the remarkable structures in the human body is the time-clock mechanism that is built into its organs.

Daily rhythms, known as "circadian" rhythms, affect the body's temperature, the heart rate, the respiration, sleep and patterns of eating.

Rapid transportation by jet plane, known as "jet lag," affects some people more than others. Few people are totally unaffected by this "shock" to our body stability.

The United States government is aware that the effectiveness of its officials can be hurt by "jet lag." They recommend that travelers base their sleeping schedule on their time of departure rather than on the time of arrival.

For example, a person leaving Paris at 6 p.m. arrives about eight hours later in New York City. He is exhausted and weary because it is 2 a.m. by his departure time.

Yet, on arrival, because of the five-hour time difference, it is only 9 p.m. by New York time. Herein lies the key to adjustment. He should not go to sleep based on New York time, but rather on Paris time.

The reverse, of course, occurs in flying from New York to Paris.

There are now a number of drugs being tried in an effort to readjust this jet lag. One drug, a stimulant, is used to cause a forward time shift. Another, a depressant, is being tried to cause a time back-shift.

It is hoped that safe drugs may soon be the answer to the many people who, like yourself, are severely affected by jet travel.

Defends young love

By Jean Adams

LOVE: (COMMENT) I have been reading your column for a long time. I think it's a decent and a helpful column for some of us teens. But I do feel that you and a lot of other people don't quite understand what it means when a young person is in love.

I am 15 and it seems that wherever I go someone says I'm too young to be in love. Well, I'm not! Love at our age is beautiful and full of meaning. It has no strings attached and no claims. It's a kind of trust shared by two people, a sense of being wanted and cared for.

Just because we say we're in love, it doesn't mean what people think. It means how the two people feel towards each other. Young love may not be as serious as adult love but it is as important. So the next time someone writes to you, don't say that they are too young to be in love! —
Happily in Love in Pennsylvania

(A.) I have advised various teen-agers that they are too young for dating, or for sex, or for drinking, or for other things. This may be what you read. If so, I can understand how you might interpret what I said as a condemnation of young love itself.

But I do not condemn young love. I do not believe I have ever told a boy or girl, even at age eight or 10, that he or she is too young to be in love. If I have, I apologize now to that person.

When I was 10 I believed I was in love. When I was 14 I was sure of it. I am sure now that what love meant to me then was different from what it means to you now. To each of us love is different. Your concept of love is far different from that of many other 15-year-olds who write me, but it is genuine, just as theirs is, because it is honest.

I try to be honest and genuine in the advice I give in each situation.

(For printed answers to your questions about shyness and dating, write to Dr. Jean Adams, care of The Pocono Record, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

their laundry does not pass the "clean smell" test.

And some homemakers run a foot race to see who can get the most dust on their mop in 15 seconds.

Now there is a new entry on the shelves called the Clean Oven Game, which sounds about as much fun as a three-day cruise on the SS Tidy Bowl.

Using buttons as markers, I am instructed to throw the dice and advance or go back as directed. If my present oven has fumes, I go back three spaces. If I can't open the safety cap, I go back four spaces. If I choose a cleanser that is safe for children or pets, advance four spaces, and if I forget my rubber gloves, let me guess, I won't have enough fingers left to pick up my buttons.

Women in laundromats who use a weak bleach are made to suffer public humiliation when a festive, fun-seeking mood when faced with an oven to clean. I called my girlfriend, Mayva, and asked her if she wanted to come over and play the oven-cleaning game with me.

Mayva has never been known to mince words. She said it sounded like fun and after that we could choose up sides and wax the driveway. I know in my heart that housework is fun, but somehow I just can't seem to get into the spirit of it.

For years, I've had my own housecleaning game. If I can get the kids to throw the covers up over their beds, I advance to the bathroom. If the light is burnt out, I keep the dice and move up to the kitchen. If it is littered with kids' stuff, I have to go back to the bedrooms, but if I land on my car keys, I collect Mayva, pass go and keep going.

President takes security push in stride

By HELEN THOMAS
UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House: President Ford seems to be taking in stride the stepped-up security surrounding his travel. But the nation's police chiefs, the Secret Service and the press are jumpy.

In Newark last Saturday some 500 policemen were put on overtime to protect the President when he appeared at a Republican fund-raising dinner.

Other cities where Ford is appearing over the next few weeks are mustering their security forces in preparation.

No public official wants any untoward incident to befall a President in his town.

Even the children of the Secret Service agents are aware of the two assassination attempts on Ford in Sacramento and San Francisco. They see photographs of their fathers with Ford more and more in the newspapers because the agents now appear to be sticking closer to the President, and in greater numbers. They can't help but be in the picture. Some Presidents have resented that, but Ford doesn't seem to mind.

Ron Pontius, acting head of the White House Secret Service detail, was one of the President's chief protectors during both California incidents. His children are telling him: "keep your head down Daddy".

Emperor Hirohito has a sense of humor and is well aware that when President Ford visited the Imperial Palace in Tokyo, Ford's striped pants were about three inches too short.

During Hirohito's visit to Washington, his ambassador here suggested that his Imper-al Highness bring as a gift to Ford a pair of striped pants. Hirohito laughed at the suggestion but thought better of the gag gift.

Much as he may not like it, President Ford for security reasons will be bringing Air Force One mainly to military facilities in his future travels and most of the handshaking he does will be with armed services personnel and their families.

Sometimes even the airmen have not been alerted. When Ford arrived in Anaheim, Calif., by helicopter recently, his military aide, Maj. Robert Barrett, chief photographer David Kennerly, and Secret Service agent Larry Buendorf were the only ones at the steps to greet him.

Ford teasingly asked Barrett, "Is this the best you can do, Sergeant?"

President Ford gave his wife full backing on the Equal Rights Amendment in Knoxville, Tenn., recently when Dorothy Warnacut from Etowah, Tenn., chairman of a stop ERA movement in East Tennessee, got up to ask a question.

"You met with pro Equal Rights Amendment representatives, and we want to know if you will please grant us equal rights to meet with you?" she asked.

"I am not familiar that I have met with any group such as you describe," Ford said.

"It is now out of the Congress, and it is in the hands

Fund drive begins to fix bridge

STROUDSBURG — The suspension bridge over Pocono Creek in Stroudsburg may not swing anymore unless borough firemen can sway residents to chip in and correct its slice.

Fencing on both sides of the bridge that connects the north Ninth Street section with Stroudsburg playground and Stroudsburg High School must be replaced, according to Capt. William Schmidt of the Stroudsburg Fire Department. And unless residents donate the $200 to $300 firemen figure they need to repair the bridge, it will be closed, Schmidt said.

Closing the bridge means students who walk to school will have to travel down Tenth Street.

Schmidt said donations may be made to the Stroudsburg Fire Department, c/o Bridge.

of the various state legislatures or in the hands of the people in the respective states," he said. "That is a procedure that is proper under our Constitution, and individuals pro and con at the state level now have the responsibility to decide under the Constitution whether there should be a ratification of that action taken by the Congress."

First Lady Betty Ford is going in for photographic art in a big way for the walls of the family quarters. Like daughter Susan, 18, a part-time photographer, Mrs. Ford has become a devotee of famed photographer

Ansel Adams, and of course White House photographer David Kennerly is practically a member of the family.

She has mounted three of Adams' photographs, all Western landscape scenes, including "Winter Sunrise," "Moon Rise," and "Clearing Winter Skies." A fourth photograph by Kennerly and printed by Adams is entitled "Cambodian Girl."

Ford has hung one Adams landscape in his inner private office and on his recent trip to Monterey, the Fords invited Adams and his wife to lunch.

Secretary of State Henry

Kissinger is leaving for Peking at the end of the week to make arrangements for President Ford's post-Thanksgiving trip to China. Ford traveled to Peking as House Republican leader in 1972. He is expected to tour other cities besides Peking on this trip.

There was a possibility that Ford may stop in Hawaii on the way. Kissinger indicated that the President may also get to Singapore, a country which both Presidents Johnson and Nixon skipped on their Asian tours. Australia and New Zealand also may get a visit from the Fords.
